Lisbon, February 17.—(Special)—Vance Drago, of Wellsville, has entered suit against Peter Tolensky, also of Wellsville, asking for $5,000 damages, alleging that his good name and reputation have been injured to that extent as the result of slander.

The words which Tolensky is alleged to have spoken against Drago are these: "He stole pork out of my cellar. He is a thief." Attorney W. F. Lones filed the petition.

Ernest Redmun, colored, residing in Wellsville, has applied for a divorce from Rachel J. Redmun and also asks the custody of their minor child, aged 4. The couple were married in June, 1887. The petition charges that the wife has been guilty repeatedly of infidelity with one Robert Redrick.

Dora Nestrick has filed suit for divorce, against Frank Nestrick. The petition relates that the marriage occurred in July, 1898, and that Frank Nestrick, the only child, was born in September, 1898. It is alleged that the husband has been wilfully absent for more than three years and the last year has failed to provide for the support of his wife and child. She asks for the custody of the child. The plaintiff lives at Hanoverton.

Charles Christy, of New Middleton, asks separation from his wife, Etta Christie. They were married in April, 1897, at Butler, Pa. The wife has been wilfully absent for more than three years and has disregarded all marital duties, according to the petition. The present whereabouts of the wife are unknown to the plaintiff.

Appeal has been made from Squire MacKenzie's court in Wellsville in the case of the Phoenix Oil company against the Buckeye Brick company. In the justice's court the plaintiff was given a judgment for $35, claimed to be due for merchandise.

NEW LEGISLATION

Bill to Prevent Blacks And Whites
From Marrying—Another Canal
Measure.

Columbus, February 17.—(Special)—A bill which will prevent miscegenation, or intermarriage of one race with that of another color, will shortly be introduced in the legislature by Representative Denuene, of Franklin county. It is claimed that marriages of this kind are too prevalent. One per cent of the marriages in Ohio during the past year were between whites and blacks, most of the whites being women.

Representative Cain, of the Portage-Noble district, has a bill which he will offer soon which will provide for the abandonment of all the canals and canal bases, and for converting the state reservoirs, excepting the one near Celina, into public parks. Attorney General Sheets has ruled that the contracts for water rights on the canals are not binding upon the state and cites decisions of the United States supreme court and other supreme courts in support of his opinion. He is opposed to the proposition to submit the question of the abandonment of the canals to a popular vote.

A GREAT SUCCESS

Were the Presbyterian Church Services Which Concluded Yesterday.

The special services at the First Presbyterian church have closed. The evangelists who so acceptably carried on the work are gone, but the influence of their efforts abides. They left the city with the best wishes of a great number who were helped to a better life. A large number of members will be added to the church as the result of their labors.

The auditorium was filled with men at 2:30 p. m. yesterday. Mr. Biedewolf delivered his sermon, "The White Life." It was a powerful plea for men to live a pure and noble life. Prof. Maxwell sang with telling effect, "Shall I Meet My Sainted Mother?"

In the evening all available space in the church was occupied. The services were impressive. Among other things Mr. Biedewolf spoke in kindest words of the press of the city for giving so much space to the report of the services. At the close of the service the congregation remained to bid them godspeed as they go on in their work of helpfulness.

Judging by the number who decided to become Christians and the impression on the church and city the meetings were a great success.

Second Term Completed—His Sensa-
tional Escape From Prison
Years Ago.

George Heckathorne, of East Liverpool, whose numerous escapades have brought him much notoriety, was one among 15 convicts who were released at the state penitentiary on Saturday. He completed a two-year sentence for burglary and larceny. He had served a similar term for the same offense before. Upon the completion of his first term he returned to East Liverpool and soon got into trouble. He fled from the city and was traced to Colorado, whence he was extradited and brought to Columbiana county for trial. Barely three months had elapsed from the time he had been given his liberty until he was returned to begin another term.

While serving his first term Heckathorne made a sensational escape from the prison. He was employed in the state shop at the time, where clothing is made, and he secured a suit of clothes which he donned and walked out with a crowd of visitors. He shaved his eyebrows and disguised himself so completely that the guard at the gate did not recognize him when he tendered him a pass which he had cleverly abstracted from the pocket of some unwary visitor. His liberty was short-lived, however. He hastened to the home of a female acquaintance in Columbus, but she betrayed him to the prison officials and he was captured the day following his escape.

An Elderly Stranger Excited Much
Curiosity By His Peculiar Actions.

An elderly man and a stranger in the city excited considerable curiosity on Sixth street yesterday by his peculiar actions. He was clothed much after the style of a western cowboy and wore long hair, which was gray in color.

During all of yesterday afternoon the stranger walked up and down Sixth street between the Diamond and Franklin street mumbering in undertones as if brooding over some misfortune. He made no effort to harm anyone, but his actions led those who watched him to believe he was demented. He disappeared last evening and has not since been seen.

Where the Responsibility Rests
And the Remedy.

The American Economist, the leading tariff paper in the country, has the following interesting editorial on the pottery industry:

The protective tariff is responsible for the pottery industry in the United States. It was only a few years ago that we manufactured only low grades of pottery, but now, under protection, we have nearly one hundred factories located largely in New Jersey, Ohio, Maryland, Indiana, Pennsylvania, New York and Massachusetts, which produce splendid ware. It was in connection with this industry that our late president made his first reputation as a tariff exponent. The benefits of protection are well illustrated by this industry, and the continuance of protection is essential if we expect to produce our own wares in this line. In the manufacture of pottery practically no machinery is used. Your cups, saucers and plates are purely the product of manual labor, and it is a satisfaction to know that our American pottery workers receive from twice to four times the wages paid in European potteries.

Under the Wilson tariff the duty on foreign pottery or chinaware was 35 per cent ad valorem. Under the Dingley tariff the rate is 60 per cent. We are in receipt of reliable information to the effect that the gross undervaluations in this line exist, especially from merchandise coming from Limoges, France. These undervaluations apply to other countries of the continent largely, but only to a limited extent to the merchandise coming from England. It is said by responsible manufacturers that the Dingley rate of 60 per cent is no more than equal under present administrative conditions to the Wilson rate of 35 per cent. It is a well known fact that for customs purposes Limoges is a "closed market"—that is American importers cannot go into that market and purchase goods in the ordinary wholesale quantities as described in the tariff law. The manufacturers of Limoges ship their goods to their own agents or representatives in New York and other cities, except, per-

Piqua, Feb. 17.—(Special)—The second biennial state convention of the Y. M. C. A. closed last evening with a big farewell meeting in the Presbyterian church. During the day the various pulpits in the city were occupied by convention delegates, and leaders of the Young People's societies were also furnished.

The men's mass meeting in the afternoon was addressed by Dr. E. W. Hunt, of Denison university, and the mass meeting of boys and young men was presided over by H. E. Dodge, of Warren, Pa., with M. C. Wright, of East Liverpool, as the speaker. At the meeting 88 boys and young men declared it to be their intention to forsake sin.

The entire convention was enthusiastic and the papers thoughtful and helpful.

The theme of "The Religious Life of Men" was discussed from various standpoints and a decided step in advance noted. One very favorable indication was the proposition of the Glob Wernicke people of Cincinnati to equip a complete Y. M. C. A., and the prediction is made that industrial concerns will in the next 10 years outstrip the railroads in furnishing quarters and facilities for this work.

The delegates from East Liverpool Secretary M. C. Wright and Physical Director P. J. Stephens, left on the night train for home.

The state convention of the Y. M. C. A. did a great amount of work at Saturday's session. An interesting paper on bible study within the association was read by Dr. L. L. Doggett, of Springfield, Mass. Another paper on "Bible Study Outside of the Association," was given by S. H. E. Dodge, of Warren, Pa., it being devoted to home and shop study. An address on the religious opportunity in the Orient was made by C. C. Michener, of New York.

At the business session a resolution was passed whereby the associations of the state will send a man to the foreign field. East Liverpool extended an invitation to hold the next bi-

Little Mildred Pope, the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James V. Pope, of Pennsylvania avenue, is in a critical condition.

The child was badly burned last week by the upsetting of some alcohol on a gas stove, and it is thought the shock to her nervous system will prove fatal.

She was ill at the time and has been growing steadily worse since, and has had repeated sinking spells, caused by the shock.

Her condition is pronounced critical and there is slight hope for her recovery.

At Columbus for the New Pottery
Which the Bells Will Build.

Columbus, February 17.—(Special)—The Bell Pottery company, of Findlay, has closed the deal for the Frey tract of land in this city on which the concern will erect a large pottery. There are 168 acres in the tract and the price paid was $65,000 cash.

The tract was bought in the name of Wm. F. Bell, the president of the company, and he stated that the construction of the plant would be begun early in the spring. The company expects to be turning out ware before next fall. It is proposed to make the factory one of the finest in the country.

Evidence is at hand that the object of the company in acquiring such a large tract of land is to divide the ground into lots and sell them.

Will Appear Here With the "A Capital Comedy" Wednes-

A theatrical event of the first importance is the appearance at the new Grand Wednesday night of Mr. Tim Murphy in his latest success, "A Capital Comedy," a new play by Paul Wilstach. This city is one of the first to see the quaint comedian in his new creation. He will present "A Capital Comedy" with the fresh scenery, furniture and furnishings of its first night, surrounded by a notable company of players, among them being Mr. James Durkin and his wife, who was formerly Miss Jeannette Ashbaugh, of this city.

Lisbon, February 17.—(Special)—Commissioners French and Bowman were in Cleveland Saturday and had a conference with the workhouse authorities there regarding a contract with that institution for the next year. The Cleveland authorities offered a contract providing for the care of prisoners at 40 cents per day, which is the same as at Canton now. Cleveland authorities give clothing, medicine, nursing and physicians' care for those sick, the county to pay for these extras. Fearing the amount of the extra expense, the commissioners decided that the contract with Canton is a better one.

WAS UNABLE TO GIVE BOND

And Will Be Taken Before the Probate Judge—Frank Spivey Again
Before the Mayor—Other Doings in Police Court.

With six different charges against him of furnishing liquor to minors, James Lowe, the West End park policeman, is a prisoner in the city jail. He will be taken to Lisbon tomorrow to appear before the probate court.

Officer Dawson arrested Lowe Saturday night. The affidavit was filed by Walter Moore, of the West End, who is employed as gardener by J. M. Aten. It is alleged that Lowe furnished whisky to Oscar Moore, the 14-year-old son of Walter Moore, and to Lewis Moore, aged 16, at various times.

The accused was arraigned before Mayor Davidson this morning and entered pleas of not guilty to all of the charges. He did not offer to deny that he had furnished liquor to the boys, but pleaded not guilty because he claimed the dates given in the affidavits were wrong.

Fixing bond at $50 in each case the mayor bound Lowe over to the probate court. He was unable to furnish the required bond and was taken back to jail. The necessary papers were made out today and he will be taken to Lisbon tomorrow.

It is said by the officers who were at the city hall yesterday that Lowe is as much of a "masher" as Ed Biddle. Scores of girls called at the jail to console him and several shed scalding tears on seeing him behind the bars. His arrest was a great surprise.

Frank Spivey was charged with drunkenness, having been arrested by Patrolman Woods. Only a few weeks ago Spivey was sent to the county infirmary, but he became dissatisfied and ran away. He told the mayor he had been roughly handled by Woods when arrested, but admitted he was drunk. He had no money and was allowed to go, but will go to the workhouse if again arrested.

John Muger was arrested last night by Officer Auerdelheide and charged with intoxication. He gave security for his appearance this evening.

Lisbon Will Not Send Her Workhouse Prisoners to

Lisbon, February 17.—(Special)—Commissioners French and Bowman were in Cleveland Saturday and had a conference with the workhouse authorities there regarding a contract with that institution for the next year. The Cleveland authorities offered a contract providing for the care of prisoners at 40 cents per day, which is the same as at Canton now. Cleveland authorities give clothing, medicine, nursing and physicians' care for those sick, the county to pay for these extras. Fearing the amount of the extra expense, the commissioners decided that the contract with Canton is a better one.

A NEW MIDDLETON HUSBAND

Wants Separation From His Wife, Who, He Claims, Has Deserted Him. Other Matters Before the Courts for Adjudication.

Lisbon, February 17.—(Special)—Vance Drago, of Wellsville, has entered suit against Peter Tolensky, also of Wellsville, asking for $5,000 damages, alleging that his good name and reputation have been injured to that extent as the result of slander.

The words which Tolensky is alleged to have spoken against Drago are these: "He stole pork out of my cellar. He is a thief." Attorney W. F. Lones filed the petition.

Ernest Redmun, colored, residing in Wellsville, has applied for a divorce from Rachel J. Redmun and also asks the custody of their minor child, aged 4. The couple were married in June, 1887. The petition charges that the wife has been guilty repeatedly of infidelity with one Robert Redrick.

Dora Nestrick has filed suit for divorce against Frank Nestrick. The petition relates that the marriage occurred in July, 1898, and that Frank Nestrick, the only child, was born in September, 1898. It is alleged that the husband has been willfully absent for more than three years and the last year has failed to provide for the support of his wife and child. She asks for the custody of the child. The plaintiff lives at Hanoverton.

Charles Christy, of New Middleton, asks separation from his wife, Etta Christie. They were married in April, 1897, at Butler, Pa. The wife has been willfully absent for more than three years and has disregarded all marital duties, according to the petition. The present whereabouts of the wife are unknown to the plaintiff.

Appeal has been made from Squire MacKenzie's court in Wellsville in the case of the Phoenix Oil company against the Buckeye Brick company. In the justice's court the plaintiff was given a judgment for $35, claimed to be due for merchandise.

NEW LEGISLATION

Bill to Prevent Blacks And Whites From Marrying—Another Canal Measure.

Columbus, February 17.—(Special)—A bill which will prevent miscegenation, or intermarriage of one race with that of another color, will shortly be introduced in the legislature by Representative Denuene, of Franklin county. It is claimed that marriages of this kind are too prevalent. One per cent of the marriages in Ohio during the past year were between whites and blacks, most of the whites being women.

Representative Cain, of the Portage-Noble district, has a bill which he will offer soon which will provide for the abandonment of all the canals and canal basins, and for converting the state reservoirs, excepting the one near Celina, into public parks. Attorney General Sheets has ruled that the contracts for water rights on the canals are not binding upon the state and cities decisions of the United States supreme court and other supreme courts in support of his opinion. He is opposed to the proposition to submit the question of the abandonment of the canals to a popular vote.

A GREAT SUCCESS

Were the Presbyterian Church Services Which Concluded Yesterday.

The special services at the First Presbyterian church have closed. The evangelists who so acceptably carried on the work are gone, but the influence of their efforts abides. They left the city with the best wishes of a great number who were helped to a better life. A large number of members will be added to the church as the result of their labors.

The auditorium was filled with men at 2:30 p. m. yesterday. Mr. Biederwolf delivered his sermon, "The White Life." It was a powerful plea for men to live a pure and noble life. Prof. Maxwell sang with telling effect, "Shall I Meet My Sainted Mother?"

In the evening all available space in the church was occupied. The services were impressive. Among other things Mr. Biederwolf spoke in kindest words of the press of the city for giving so much space to the report of the services. At the close of the service the congregation remained to bid them godspeed as they go on in their work of helpfulness.

Judging by the number who decided to become Christians and the impression on the church and city the meetings were a great success.

FREE MAN AGAIN

GEORGE HECKATHORNE OUT OF THE PENITENTIARY.

Second Term Completed—His Sensational Escape From Prison Years Ago.

George Heckathorne, of East Liverpool, whose numerous escapades have brought him much notoriety, was one among 15 convicts who were released at the state penitentiary on Saturday. He completed a two-year sentence for burglary and larceny. He had served a similar term for the same offense before. Upon the completion of his first term he returned to East Liverpool and soon got into trouble. He fled from the city and was traced to Colorado, whence he was extradited and brought to Columbiana county for trial. Barely three months had elapsed from the time he had been given his liberty until he was returned to begin another term.

While serving his first term Heckathorne made a sensational escape from the prison. He was employed in the state shop at the time, where clothing is made, and he secured a suit of clothes which he donned and walked out with a crowd of visitors. He shaved his eyebrows and disguised himself so completely that the guard at the gate did not recognize him when he tendered him a pass which he had cleverly abstracted from the pocket of some unwary visitor. His liberty was short-lived, however. He hastened to the home of a female acquaintance in Columbus, but she betrayed him to the prison officials and he was captured the day following his escape.

BELIEVED TO BE CRAZY

An Elderly Stranger Excited Much Curiosity By His Peculiar Actions.

An elderly man and a stranger in the city excited considerable curiosity on Sixth street yesterday by his peculiar actions. He was clothed much after the style of a western cowboy and wore long hair, which was gray in color.

During all of yesterday afternoon the stranger walked up and down Sixth street between the Diamond and Franklin street mumbering in undertones as if brooding over some misfortune. He made no effort to harm anyone, but his actions led those who watched him to believe he was demented. He disappeared last evening and has not since been seen.

INDUSTRY BUILT BY THE TARIFF

What An Authority Has to Say Upon the Crockery Trade's Rise.

INJUSTICE TO AMERICA

In the Practice of Undervaluing Shipments of Pottery From Abroad. Where the Responsibility Rests And the Remedy.

The American Economist, the leading tariff paper in the country, has the following interesting editorial on the pottery industry:

The protective tariff is responsible for the pottery industry in the United States. It was only a few years ago that we manufactured only low grades of pottery, but now, under protection, we have nearly one hundred factories located largely in New Jersey, Ohio, Maryland, Indiana, Pennsylvania, New York and Massachusetts, which produce splendid ware. It was in connection with this industry that our late president made his first reputation as a tariff exponent. The benefits of protection are well illustrated by this industry, and the continuance of protection is essential if we expect to produce our own wares in this line. In the manufacture of pottery practically no machinery is used. Your cups, saucers and plates are purely the product of manual labor, and it is a satisfaction to know that our American pottery workers receive from twice to four times the wages paid in European potteries.

Under the Wilson tariff the duty on foreign pottery or chinaware was 35 per cent ad valorem. Under the Dingley tariff the rate is 60 per cent. We are in receipt of reliable information to the effect that the gross undervaluations in this line exist, especially from merchandise coming from Limoges, France. These undervaluations apply to other countries of the continent largely, but only to a limited extent to the merchandise coming from England. It is said by responsible manufacturers that the Dingley rate of 60 per cent is no more than equal under present administrative conditions to the Wilson rate of 35 per cent. It is a well known fact that for customs purposes Limoges is a "closed market"—that is American importers cannot go into that market and purchase goods in the ordinary wholesale quantities as described in the tariff law. The manufacturers of Limoges ship their goods to their own agents or representatives in New York and other cities, except, per-

THREE MEN WOUNDED BY CHARGE OF SHOT

Three men were painfully wounded by a single discharge from a shot gun on the Wolf farm, north of town, Saturday afternoon. None of the wounds are thought to be serious.

Ed and William Wolf and Charles Burbick were rabbit hunting and had succeeded in tracking one of the animals to its hole. Procuring a pick the young men began to widen the hole in order to kill the rabbit. There was but one gun in the party and when the digging was commenced the weapon was laid upon the ground close to the spot where the men were at work.

In some mysterious manner the shot gun was discharged. Ed Wolf was hit in the left shoulder, while his brother William suffered a nasty wound in the neck. Charles Burbick got off with a few shot in the right leg.

The men were all badly frightened and made haste to reach the Wolf home, where it was found, upon examination, that the wounds were not of a serious character.

She was ill at the time and has been growing steadily worse since, and has had repeated sinking spells, caused by the shock.

Her condition is pronounced critical and there is slight hope for her recovery.

A SITE PURCHASED

At Columbus for the New Pottery Which the Bells Will Build.

Columbus, February 17.—(Special)—The Bell Pottery company, of Findlay, has closed the deal for the Frey tract of land in this city on which the concern will erect a large pottery. There are 168 acres in the tract and the price paid was $65,000 cash.

The tract was bought in the name of Wm. F. Bell, the president of the company, and he stated that the construction of the plant would be begun early in the spring. The company expects to be turning out ware before next fall. It is proposed to make the factory one of the finest in the country.

Evidence is at hand that the object of the company in acquiring such a large tract of land is to divide the ground into lots and sell them.

Wintering in Colorado And Utah.

The climate of Colorado and Utah has long been world famous, but it is only within recent years that attention has been given to the delightful winter climate of these states. Today physicians all over the United States send their patients to Colorado and Utah to escape the rigors of eastern winters and to benefit by her invigorating atmosphere and health-giving sunshine.

It is not necessary to add an elaborate argument—the conclusion is self-evident and inevitable. The winter climate of Colorado and Utah on the whole presents advantages for the invalid and the pleasure-seeker that cannot fail to command attention.

An erroneous impression prevails that because the Rocky mountains have a high elevation the mercury in the thermometer drops down below zero in the winter season and stops there, and that the snow mounts up with the altitude. The fact is that the average precipitation of moisture in the lowlands of the mountain region during the entire year is only 14.15 inches. With such average precipitation there is practically no danger of snow blockades on the railroads, save at a few points exposed to drifts and these points have been amply protected. This is especially true of the lines of the Denver & Rio Grande and the Rio Grande Western between Denver and Ogden at all seasons of the year. Facts speak for themselves, and the fact is that travel over "The Scenic Line of the World" has gone on with less interruption from snow blockades during the last ten winters than it has upon the majority of railroads in other localities which are popularly supposed to be more free from such delays than the mountain systems. DEMOCRATIC IDEAS

Embodied in Tax Bills For Extension of the Nichols Law.

Columbus, Feb. 17.—(Special)—Two bills with identical provisions were introduced in the senate and house on Friday by Senator Decker, of Paulding, and Representative Carle, of Seneca. They contain the Democratic ideas on taxation, and extend the provisions of the Nichols law, which now only applies to telephone, telegraph, express and sleeping car companies, to electric light, natural gas, gas, pipeline, water works, street railways, messenger companies, interurban and steam railway companies.

The passage of the Harding bill, providing for the appointment of a commission to investigate the subject of hospitals for consumptives, has been recommended by the senate committee on sanitary laws.

UNIVERSITY SUPPORT

Legislators Think the Taxes Are Mostly For Franklin County's Benefit.

Columbus, Feb. 17.—(Special)—A circular has been prepared showing the taxes by counties for the Ohio State University, at Columbus, proposed to be raised by a bill, at the rate of 2-10 of a mill on the grand duplicate; also the number of students in attendance. Franklin county, under the bill, is to contribute $17,448.74 in taxes to the institution. The county has the largest number of students—403. Columbiana county has but 18 students and is to be called upon to pay $5,650.11.

The claim is put forth that Franklin county is the chief beneficiary under the bill. The Columbiana county members look askance at the measure.

Rebekah Lodge Assembly.

Columbus, Feb. 17.—(Special)—The official list of the representatives to the state assembly of Rebekah lodges, which meets at Findlay the second week in April, has been received by Grand Secretary Lyman, of the Odd Fellows. Wintering in Colorado And Utah.

The climate of Colorado and Utah has long been world famous, but it is only within recent years that attention has been given to the delightful winter climate of these states. Today physicians all over the United States send their patients to Colorado and Utah to escape the rigors of eastern winters and to benefit by her invigorating atmosphere and health-giving sunshine.

It is not necessary to add an elaborate argument—the conclusion is self-evident and inevitable. The winter climate of Colorado and Utah on the whole presents advantages for the invalid and the pleasure-seeker that cannot fail to command attention.

An erroneous impression prevails that because the Rocky mountains have a high elevation the mercury in the thermometer drops down below zero in the winter season and stops there, and that the snow mounts up with the altitude. The fact is that the average precipitation of moisture in the lowlands of the mountain region during the entire year is only 14.15 inches. With such average precipitation there is practically no danger of snow blockades on the railroads, save at a few points exposed to drifts and these points have been amply protected. This is especially true of the lines of the Denver & Rio Grande and the Rio Grande Western between Denver and Ogden at all seasons of the year. Facts speak for themselves, and the fact is that travel over "The Scenic Line of the World" has gone on with less interruption from snow blockades during the last ten winters than it has upon the majority of railroads in other localities which are popularly supposed to be more free from such delays than the mountain systems. FOUR LIVES WERE LOST.

Head-On Collision on the Iowa Central—Dead Engineer Thought Responsible.

Marshalltown, Ia., Feb. 17.—Four lives were lost in a head-on collision on the Iowa Central railroad, one mile north of Gifford, when a light engine, northbound, crashed into a passenger train.

The Dead.

Wallace Frew, Keithsburg, Illinois, engineer of light engine; head crushed; killed instantly; buried under his engine. The body was recovered and brought here.

John White, Oskaloosa, engineer of the passenger train, left leg crushed and foot severed; both arms broken. Taken to a hospital at Eldora, where he died later.

Frank Patton, Marshalltown, fireman of light engine; skull crushed; died instantly; body brought here.

Elmer Ogle, Marshalltown, fireman of passenger engine; driven against boiler head; badly crushed; died instantly; remains brought here.

Lawrence A. J. Egan, of Chicago, a traveling salesman, was badly bruised about the hips. Several other passengers were slightly injured.

Marshalltown, Ia., Feb. 17.—Four lives were lost in a head-on collision on the Iowa Central railroad, one mile north of Gifford, when a light engine, northbound, crashed into a passenger train.

THE DEAD.

Wallace Frew, Keithsburg, Illinois, engineer of light engine; head crushed; killed instantly; buried under his engine. The body was recovered and brought here.

John White, Oskaloosa, engineer of the passenger train, left leg crushed and foot severed; both arms broken. Taken to a hospital at Eldora, where he died later.

Frank Patton, Marshalltown, fireman of light engine; skull crushed; died instantly; body brought here. Elmer Ogle, Marshalltown, fireman of passenger engine; driven against boiler head; badly crushed; died instantly; remains brought here.

Lawrence A. J. Egan, of Chicago, a traveling salesman, was badly bruised about the hips. Several other passengers were slightly injured.

The wreck evidently was caused by Engineer Frew being mistaken as to the time or failing to remember the existence of the passenger train which he should have passed at Gifford.

STORM OF OPPOSITION

Meets Request For Appropriation For Enlargement of Ohio State University.

OTHER COLLEGES OPPOSED

Bill Introduced in Legislature to Prevent the Overcrowding of Street Cars—Change in Attitude of Anti-Saloon People.

Columbus, O., Feb. 17.—(Special)—Ohio is to have official representation at the coming St. Louis exposition, though not perhaps in so sumptuous a way as some might like or as was at first expected. The original plan which found expression in a bill introduced in the senate by Mr. Archer called for an appropriation of $200,000 and the creation of an administrative board of fifteen members, one of whom was to serve as commissioner and be permanently stationed at St. Louis at a salary to be determined by the board. No special provision was made for the women of the state. This measure was referred to the finance committee and the pruning knife put at work. It will now come back to the senate in a much modified and less expensive form. The board of commissioners is to be reduced from fifteen to ten, and to take the place of the five a woman's board of that number is created. The members of both these boards are to be given five dollars a day each while actually engaged in the work of the exposition, or, rather, the Ohio end of it, and, in addition, the men will be allowed their traveling expenses and subsistence while away from home. The women will be treated in no such gracious way, probably upon the theory that home presents the most attractive place for them to stay, and there will be no reason why they should leave. The board of administration is further instructed to elect a resident commissioner, who is to remain at St. Louis a goodly portion of the time and who is to receive an annual salary of not to exceed $2,500 a year. In all of this the reduction of expenses was but slight. It was in the grand appropriation that the committee made wholesale changes. The contemplated appropriation of $200,000 was cut squarely in two and placed at $100,000, and at that figure it will pass, if at all. There is some disposition to criticize the entire transaction and argue that Ohio can get along without an official representation. This opposition, if unable to defeat the bill in the legislature, may attack its constitutionality, and Representative Duvall now has a resolution drawn up to that effect.

The Ohio State university, in asking for an appropriation to carry on the work of that institution, in an enlarged and more expansive way, has raised a storm of opposition which finds its center in the other universities and colleges of the state. This increase is asked for under the claim that the money is needed to erect new and more commodious buildings, improve some already up and increase the character and scope of the curriculum. In short, to make the university one which will successfully undergo a comparison with the great universities of other states. In this stand it has the accord of many of the leading educators of the state and members of the legislature who, supported by a natural state pride, wish to see Ohio in the vanguard of educational advance. The opposition to the increase, as shown by the other universities, has its inception in the fear that this central Columbus school is to be built up at their expense, and that as it grows and reaches out and becomes more powerful, they will decrease in strength and usefulness, with gradually diminishing appropriations, until none are left them at all. And in this they are not without reason. In fact, the matter resolves itself into the proposition of whether it is better to have one great central university, sustained and supported by the state, or several under state care, with the appropriation divided among them.

Before the adjournment of the general assembly some action will be taken to abolish what is known as "stockholder's double liability," by which the owners of stock in corporations can be held for liability to double the amount of their holdings. The startling statement is made that because of this law $1,050,000 of capital left Ohio last year to find a home in other states, and that a continuance of the law will ultimately result in practically driving all corporations from the state. The taxation committee, to which the statement was made, was dumfounded at the array of figures and admitted that something must be done for the protection of Ohio industries. As the opening move in such a direction, Mr. Fraser of Lucas will endeavor to secure the passage of a bill providing that a creditor must bring action for a debt against a corporation within two years from the time it is due or forfeit his right to action. A further stipulation is that where stock is transferred, the original stockholder cannot be held for a debt of the corporation for more than two years after the transfer. This bill, if passed, will be followed by others of a more stringent and specific character.

Representative Jones of Toledo will present, later in the session, a measure calculated to warm the hearts of those who, by force of circumstances, are compelled to take crowded street cars in the early evenings when the rush from shop and factory and store is heaviest and the facilities for transportation seemingly the least. His bill will compel street car companies to hang a sign on the outside of the car, when every seat has been taken, reading, "Car is full." This undoubtedly would not prevent some overly-ambitious people from climbing on and standing up, but Mr. Jones proposes to protect such against themselves. To do that, he will declare it a misdemeanor both for a person to get on a car or for the conductor to let him on, and for such an offense both can be taken before a magistrate and fined anywhere from $5 to $50.

Several labor bills have either been introduced during the past few days or are ready to go in. The most important of these relates to convict contract labor and provides for its abolishment in the Ohio penitentiary, the Mansfield reformatory and all workhouses in the state after Sept. 1, 1902. It further creates a commission of three members, to be appointed by the governor, which shall exercise jurisdiction over the labor in all the penal institutions in the state. The plan is to have the inmates of all these institutions manufacture goods for use in state institutions only, and such goods would pass through the hands of this commission for distribution. Another bill introduced by the same representative, Mr. Pollock of Stark, raises the age for child employment and prohibits the hiring of boys or girls, during the school year, who are not fifteen years of age or more. The third bill of importance, which is yet to come, declares that all state printing must be done in union shops and bear the union label. It was the first idea to require only the stamp of the International Typographical union, but this was objected to so strenuously by the Allied Printing Trades council, on the ground that while it would protect the typesetters, it made no provision for the others who must take part in the work, that the change to include all who have a hand in the printing and require the label of both the typographical union and the Allied Printing Trades council was agreed to, and under that form it will be presented for consideration.

"Arbor day" is to be supplanted by "Forest and Bird day," in which Ohio will stand unique. Mr. Hays of Cincinnati is the originator of the idea. The governor is to set apart one day in March of each year to be used by the pupils in all public schools and state institutions for the study of forestry and the protection and care of birds. "A thing of which the people are now woefully ignorant," he says. The planting of trees is not to be stopped, but to that simply perfunctory task is to be added a technical knowledge of what the trees are and the purpose for which they are put down, as well as some idea of the different birds which live in Ohio, their usefulness and why they should be protected and allowed to thrive and grow. "Arbor day" is simply to give way to a day of wider significance and deeper meaning.

The expected change in the attitude of the anti-saloon people has come, and, as a result, the original bill, which was presented some time ago, has been so amended as to eliminate in its entirety the local option feature, leaving only the feature of voting on the saloon question by municipalities. Towns and cities may cause the removal of saloons when a majority of the voters so decide at an election. In place of the ward local option feature, a new bill will be introduced providing that when fifty-one per cent or more of the qualified voters of a ward petition the council asking for the removal of saloons, the council is to hold a special meeting within five days, and if upon examination the petition is found to be regular, the mayor shall order the saloons within the ward closed and see that the order is enforced. Somewhat stringent penalties are attached for failure to comply. Such an action, when once put in operation, is to remain effective for two years, but at the end of that time a new petition may be circulated by the liquor dealers, and if they are able to obtain the consent of more than a majority of the voters, the saloons may be re-established. It is the hope of the anti-saloon supporters to secure the passage of both these bills.

EUROPE: WHAT NEXT?

Schwab Found Feeling of Uncertainty and Curiosity as to Steel Combine.

UTMOST FRIENDSHIP FOR U. S.

President of Great Corporation Returned, Himself More Than Ever Impressed With Combine's Scope and Possibilities.

New York, Feb. 17.—After an absence of nearly two months in Europe Mr. Charles M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel corporation, arrived yesterday morning on the steamship St. Paul. He comes in time to attend the annual meeting of the stockholders of the corporation, which is to be held today in Jersey City.

Schwab Himself More Impressed.

Mr. Schwab visited England, France, Germany and Austria, coming everywhere in the closest touch with the leaders of finance and manufacture. He returns, as he himself expressed it to the Associated Press last night, more than ever impressed with the scope and possibilities of the great corporation of which he is the head, and more than ever enthusiastic over the position of the United States in its relationship with the trade and commerce of the world. Mr. Schwab declined to discuss the personal details of his trip. He said he preferred to speak as the president of the United States Steel corporation. "I went away for a vacation," he said, "and while I had a delightful trip I also did a great deal of work. I found a feeling of the utmost friendship for our country existing everywhere in Europe. I found also intense interest in the question of the industrial combination, business men on every hand wishing to know more about them and more about our methods."

Surprised at Tremendous Interest.

"I have been privileged to meet the greatest men in the European world of finance and manufacture and the great master minds of economic thought. I was surprised and delighted to find such tremendous interest in our great undertaking and with the cordial reception given everywhere to the president of the steel corporation."

"I said in a speech delivered in Chicago that any combination of business enterprises organized for other purpose than the reduction of cost and the increase of output 'is placed upon a false basis, and I return from my visit to Europe feeling more than ever impressed with the truth of that proposition. I come back with my ideas broadened and my enthusiasm unbounded. Heretofore I have looked upon our great combination of the steel industry of this country as perhaps nothing more than an ordinary business venture of great magnitude, but after hearing the views of the business men of the old world I find that I have, if anything, underrated our undertaking."

Ready to Demonstrate Advantages.

"We are now more than ever ready to demonstrate that the greater the scope of the combination the greater the possibilities for economy, and consequently the greater the possibilities for the reduction of cost. With these objects in view we must have our great plants equipped and manned to perfection, and no care or proper expense must be spared to keep those plants modern and at the highest point that ingenuity, skill and enterprise can reach."

"While there exists in Europe the greatest feeling of friendship and admiration for America and Americans, I found also a degree of curiosity and uncertainty as to what we are going to do next. But, as I told them, they have their own protection at home in their laws and what we are after is trade in the great common field such as China and the Orient generally. This we want and this we are going to get. In order that we may do so, however, we look to congress to make provision for the protection of our shipping. We will look after the manufacturing."

No Enmity Among Great Men.

"Speaking as the president of the United States Steel corporation, I wish to impress upon our people here the fact that throughout England and Europe there exists no feeling of enmity among the great men; and my visit abroad this year was notable in the change I found when I, who had been there so often before as an individual, presented myself as the president of the United States Steel corporation, which, as the greatest of American consolidations, was the center of curiosity among inquiring men of all nations, who sought on every hand to learn more of our methods and our plans."

Mr. Schwab said he preferred not to anticipate the proceedings at the meeting of the United States Steel corporation today.

In fact, the matter resolves itself into the proposition of whether it is better to have one great central university, sustained and supported by the state, or several under state care, with the appropriation divided among them.

Before the adjournment of the general assembly some action will be taken to abolish what is known as "stockholder's double liability," by which the owners of stock in corporations can be held for liability to double the amount of their holdings. The startling statement is made that because of this law $1,050,000 of capital left Ohio last year to find a home in other states, and that a continuance of the law will ultimately result in practically driving all corporations from the state. The taxation committee, to which the statement was made, was dumfounded at the array of figures and admitted that something must be done for the protection of Ohio industries. As the opening move in such a direction, Mr. Fraser of Lucas will endeavor to secure the passage of a bill providing that a creditor must bring action for a debt against a corporation within two years from the time it is due or forfeit his right to action. A further stipulation is that where stock is transferred, the original stockholder cannot be held for a debt of the corporation for more than two years after the transfer. This bill, if passed, will be followed by others of a more stringent and specific character.

Representative Jones of Toledo will present, later in the session, a measure calculated to warm the hearts of those who, by force of circumstances, are compelled to take crowded street cars in the early evenings when the rush from shop and factory and store is heaviest and the facilities for transportation seemingly the least. His bill will compel street car companies to hang a sign on the outside of the car, when every seat has been taken, reading, "Car is full." This undoubtedly would not prevent some overly-ambitious people from climbing on and standing up, but Mr. Jones proposes to protect such against themselves. To do that, he will declare it a misdemeanor both for a person to get on a car or for the conductor to let him on, and for such an offense both can be taken before a magistrate and fined anywhere from $5 to $50.

Several labor bills have either been introduced during the past few days or are ready to go in. The most important of these relates to convict contract labor and provides for its abolishment in the Ohio penitentiary, the Mansfield reformatory and all workhouses in the state after Sept. 1, 1932. It further creates a commission of three members, to be appointed by the governor, which shall exercise jurisdiction over the labor in all the penal institutions in the state. The plan is to have the inmates of all these institutions manufacture goods for use in state institutions only, and such goods would pass through the hands of this commission for distribution. Another bill introduced by the same representative, Mr. Pollock of Stark, raises the age for child employment and prohibits the hiring of boys or girls, during the school year, who are not fifteen years of age or more. The third bill of importance, which is yet to come, declares that all state printing must be done in union shops and bear the union label. It was the first idea to require only the stamp of the International Typographical union, but this was objected to so strenuously by the Allied Printing Trades council, on the ground that while it would protect the typesetters, it made no provision for the others who must take part in the work, that the change to include all who have a hand in the printing and require the label of both the typographical union and the Allied Printing Trades council was agreed to, and under that form it will be presented for consideration.

"Arbor day" is to be supplanted by "Forest and Bird day," in which Ohio will stand unique. Mr. Hays of Cincinnati is the originator of the idea. The governor is to set apart one day in March of each year to be used by the pupils in all public schools and state institutions for the study of forestry and the protection and care of birds. "A thing of which the people are now woefully ignorant," he says. The planting of trees is not to be stopped, but to that simply perfunctory task is to be added a technical knowledge of what the trees are and the purpose for which they are put down, as well as some idea of the different birds which live in Ohio, their usefulness and why they should be protected and allowed to thrive and grow. "Arbor day" is simply to give way to a day of wider significance and deeper meaning.

The expected change in the attitude of the anti-saloon people has come, and, as a result, the original bill, which was presented some time ago, has been so amended as to eliminate in its entirety the local option feature, leaving only the feature of voting on the saloon question by municipalities. Towns and cities may cause the removal of saloons when a majority of the voters so decide at an election. In place of the ward local option feature, a new bill will be introduced providing that when fifty-one per cent or more of the qualified voters of a ward petition the council asking for the removal of saloons, the council is to hold a special meeting within five days, and if upon examination the petition is found to be regular, the mayor shall order the saloons within the ward closed and see that the order is enforced. Somewhat stringent penalties are attached for failure to comply. Such an action, when once put in operation, is to remain effective for two years, but at the end of that time a new petition may be circulated by the liquor dealers, and if they are able to obtain the consent of more than a majority of the voters, the saloons may be re-established. It is the hope of the anti-saloon supporters to secure the passage of both these bills.

EUROPE: WHAT NEXT?

Schwab Found Feeling of Uncertainty and Curiosity as to Steel Combine.

UTMOST FRIENDSHIP FOR U. S.

President of Great Corporation Returned, Himself More Than Ever Impressed With Combine's Scope and Possibilities.

New York, Feb. 17.—After an absence of nearly two months in Europe Mr. Charles M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel corporation, arrived yesterday morning on the steamship St. Paul. He comes in time to attend the annual meeting of the stockholders of the corporation, which is to be held today in Jersey City.

Schwab Himself More Impressed.

Mr. Schwab visited England, France, Germany and Austria, coming everywhere in the closest touch with the leaders of finance and manufacture. He returns, as he himself expressed it to the Associated Press last night, more than ever impressed with the scope and possibilities of the great corporation of which he is the head, and more than ever enthusiastic over the position of the United States in its relationship with the trade and commerce of the world.

Mr. Schwab declined to discuss the personal details of his trip. He said he preferred to speak as the president of the United States Steel corporation. "I went away for a vacation," he said, "and while I had a delightful trip I also did a great deal of work. I found a feeling of the utmost friendship for our country existing everywhere in Europe. I found also intense interest in the question of the industrial combination, business men on every hand wishing to know more about them and more about our methods.

Surprised at Tremendous Interest.

"I have been privileged to meet the greatest men in the European world of finance and manufacture and the great master minds of economic thought. I was surprised and delighted to find such tremendous interest in our great undertaking and with the cordial reception given everywhere to the president of the steel corporation.

"I said in a speech delivered in Chicago that any combination of business enterprises organized for other purpose than the reduction of cost and the increase of output is placed upon a false basis, and I return from my visit to Europe feeling more than ever impressed with the truth of that proposition. I come back with my ideas broadened and my enthusiasm unbounded. Heretofore I have looked upon our great combination of the steel industry of this country as perhaps nothing more than an ordinary business venture of great magnitude, but after hearing the views of the business men of the old world I find that I have, if anything, underrated our undertaking.

Ready to Demonstrate Advantages.

"We are now more than ever ready to demonstrate that the greater the scope of the combination the greater the possibilities for economy, and consequently the greater the possibilities for the reduction of cost. With these objects in view we must have our great plants equipped and manned to perfection, and no care or proper expense must be spared to keep those plants modern and at the highest point that ingenuity, skill and enterprise can reach.

"While there exists in Europe the greatest feeling of friendship and admiration for America and Americans, I found also a degree of curiosity and uncertainty as to what we are going to do next. But, as I told them, they have their own protection at home in their laws and what we are after is trade in the great common field such as China and the Orient generally. This we want and this we are going to get. In order that we may do so, however, we look to congress to make provision for the protection of our shipping. We will look after the manufacturing.

No Enmity Among Great Men.

"Speaking as the president of the United States Steel corporation, I wish to impress upon our people here the fact that throughout England and Europe there exists no feeling of enmity among the great men; and my visit abroad this year was notable in the change I found when I, who had been there so often before as an individual, presented myself as the president of the United States Steel corporation, which, as the greatest of American consolidations, was the center of curiosity among inquiring men of all nations, who sought on every hand to learn more of our methods and our plans."

Mr. Schwab said he preferred not to anticipate the proceedings at the meeting of the United States Steel corporation today.

STORM OF OPPOSITION

Meets Request For Appropriation For Enlargement of Ohio State University.

OTHER COLLEGES OPPOSED

Bill Introduced in Legislature to Prevent the Overcrowding of Street Cars—Change in Attitude of Anti-Saloon People.

Columbus, O., Feb. 17.—(Special)—Ohio is to have official representation at the coming St. Louis exposition, though not perhaps in so sumptuous a way as some might like or as was at first expected. The original plan which found expression in a bill introduced in the senate by Mr. Archer called for an appropriation of $200,000 and the creation of an administrative board of fifteen members, one of whom was to serve as commissioner and be permanently stationed at St. Louis at a salary to be determined by the board. No special provision was made for the women of the state. This measure was referred to the finance committee and the pruning knife put at work. It will now come back to the senate in a much modified and less expensive form. The board of commissioners is to be reduced from fifteen to ten, and to take the place of the five a woman's board of that number is created. The members of both these boards are to be given five dollars a day each while actually engaged in the work of the exposition, or, rather, the Ohio end of it, and, in addition, the men will be allowed their traveling expenses and subsistence while away from home. The women will be treated in no such gracious way, probably upon the theory that home presents the most attractive place for them to stay, and there will be no reason why they should leave. The board of administration is further instructed to elect a resident commissioner, who is to remain at St. Louis a goodly portion of the time and who is to receive an annual salary of not to exceed $2,500 a year. In all of this the reduction of expenses was but slight. It was in the grand appropriation that the committee made wholesale changes. (The contemplated appropriation of $200,000 was cut squarely in two and placed at $100,000, and at that figure it will pass, if at all. There is some disposition to criticize the entire transaction and argue that Ohio can get along without an official representation. This opposition, if unable to defeat the bill in the legislature, may attack its constitutionality, and Representative Duvall now has a resolution drawn up to that effect.

The Ohio State university, in asking for an appropriation to carry on the work of that institution, in an enlarged and more expansive way, has raised a storm of opposition which finds its center in the other universities and colleges of the state. This increase is asked for under the claim that the money is needed to erect new and more commodious buildings, improve some already up and increase the character and scope of the curriculum. In short, to make the university one which will successfully undergo a comparison with the great universities of other states. In this stand it has the accord of many of the leading educators of the state and members of the legislature who, supported by a natural state pride, wish to see Ohio in the vanguard of educational advance. The opposition to the increase, as shown by the other universities, has its inception in the fear that this central Columbus school is to be built up at their expense, and that as it grows and reaches out and becomes more powerful, they will decrease in strength and usefulness, with gradually diminishing appropriations, until none are left them at all. And in this they are not without reason. In fact, the matter resolves itself into the proposition of whether it is better to have one great central university, sustained and supported by the state, or several under state care, with the appropriation divided among them.

Before the adjournment of the general assembly some action will be taken to abolish what is known as "stockholder's double liability," by which the owners of stock in corporations can be held for liability to double the amount of their holdings. The proposal to send workhouse prisoners from this city to Cleveland instead of Canton is one which council consider closely and act upon promptly. If it is possible to save five cents a day on the cost of keeping each prisoner the saving will amount to a considerable sum in the course of a year. The city should always save wherever it can, and there is an especially strong reason for economy in expenditures just at present. The cost of transporting prisoners to Cleveland will be little more than to Canton, and the direct railroad journey will take less time than the change of cars now necessary. So far, in the discussion that has taken place on the subject, no good reason has been presented why the proposed change should not be made.

The decision of the Pennsylvania company to erect a railway station in the East End which shall furnish adequate accommodations for the freight and passenger business of that busy and growing section of the city is none the less welcome though tardy. The councilmen who have labored so zealously to bring about the consummation of the popular wish are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts. The evident disposition of the railroad officials to pay more attention to the interests of this city is one that will be hailed with much satisfaction.

Massachusetts in 1888 had 533 miles of street railways. Today she has 2,177 miles, having added 263 last year. The last horse car disappeared in 1901, and the electric railway mileage exceeds that of the steam railways. Manifestly a great social and industrial revolution is going on under the stimulus of the railroad system that is bringing towns and country together and conferring countless direct and indirect benefits upon the people. Labor has participated in the industrial movement and is one of its most conspicuous beneficiaries.

The efforts of local pastors and visiting clergymen in the evangelistic field appear to be bearing excellent fruit. East Liverpool ministers are, among the busiest men in this busy city, and the best of it is that they make their work count.

A California woman has sued for $250,000 damages for the alleged abduction of her husband. The fact that she had not had him long perhaps accounts for the high price at which she valued him.

In one church choir in Akron, 29 women singers are reported to have found husbands in the past four years. The choir director must be kept busy all the time listening to applications for membership.

Prince Henry is to speak English exclusively while on tour in this country. This is obviously the proper thing, and it will conduce not a little to popular interest in his visit.

Youngstown has raised $3,000 for the McKinley monument, and is not yet through. The chance is still open for East Liverpool to do as well.

A tip to the health board: The garbage question will not settle by standing.

Another Boer trap has been sprung, and, as usual, it was not empty.

MRS. HUSS' LUNCHEON

An Elaborate Affair in Pittsburg in Honor of East Liverpool Ladies.

The luncheon given by Mrs. Simon R. Huss, formerly Miss Florence Cartwright, of this city, at her home in Pittsburg Saturday afternoon, was a very interesting and pretty affair. It was in honor of the Flabbergaster club of this city. The house was handsomely decorated. There were eight courses and covers were laid for 14. The place of each guest in the dining room was designated by a card bearing her name, the hostess' monogram and a pretty "Gibson girl" picture. The luncheon was a most elaborate affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Huss leave next week for Washington, D. C., where Mr. Huss will look after business matters.

AT THE THEATER

At the opera house tonight Con T. Murphy's latest success "The Game Keeper" will be presented. Messrs. Rowland and Clifford, proprietors of this attraction are featuring Smith O'Brien, a very clever singing and dancing comedian, who will be remembered as the star of "The Ivy Leaf" and "The Fairies Well." "The Game Keeper" differs materially from anything in this line that has ever been produced by this author. While it abounds with pathos, it possesses a vein of comedy never attempted into an Irish comedy drama, thereby furnishing ample opportunity and scope for Mr. O'Brien to introduce his original songs, that he is so famous for.

Manager Norris received a telegram this morning from the Brixton Burglary company, stating that four of their members were sick, making it necessary for them to cancel the engagement for this city tomorrow evening.

INDUSTRY BUILT

haps, upon what are known as "import orders," where the merchandise is shipped direct to the purchaser. From evidence which we have seen we have no doubt that merchandise of this description is invoiced at actually less than the cost of production, and this fact is known to the customs officers at New York.

Who is to blame, and how can this condition be rectified?

Some of the largest importers at New York are closely identified with the manufacturers in Europe, and naturally they wish to place their goods upon this market at the lowest possible price. It is evident that in these efforts they have the co-operation of customs officers, and we believe that the trouble begins with the supervising special agent of the treasury department at Washington and the special agent at Paris, for the investigations and reports of these officers have not only been misleading but contrary to reports made by officers of the state department. We believe also that the examiners in the appraiser's office at New York are too much given to friendly consideration of the invoice values of certain importers, and that at least one member of the United States board of general appraisers has been so willing to receive importers' evidence that it has been practically impossible to maintain advances.

Certain it is that the pottery manufacturers are suffering from great undervaluations under this Republican administration, and we sincerely hope that Secretary Shaw will adopt such methods as will give to this industry the protection accorded by the Dingley tariff.

The Sanitary Pressers' local No. 45 at Trenton will hold the first meeting at the new quarters of the Brotherhood of Operative Potters in the Ribsam building Tuesday evening, when several questions for presentation at the national convention, which meets in May, will be discussed. These questions refer to reforms in the trade, as there are a number of defects now creeping in which need the approval of the national body to remedy. Trenton contains more sanitary workers than any town in the United States, and the questions to be brought before Tuesday night's meeting will have considerable bearing upon the pottery trade. The other locals which have complaints to make at the convention will discuss them at the meetings during the next few weeks. In March the locals will elect their delegates and regulate the pay they are to receive while the convention is in progress.

During the past week very few buyers have been in the city, and hence but few large orders have been secured by the manufacturers. However, there is an encouraging outlook for a good spring trade, and reports from different parts of the country are to the effect that the potteries may soon expect to be rushed. While many orders have been placed with the local firms this year, it is a noticeable fact that a better grade of ware is being purchased than during last season. At some of the plants the decorators have been compelled to work night and day to get out rush orders, and only last week one firm received an order for the most costly decorated toilet set made. It is claimed that not a single buyer who came here during the past season left without placing an order.

The new quarters of the Brotherhood of Operative Potters in the Ribsam building at Trenton, which have been undergoing renovation during the past three weeks, are now ready for occupancy. The room has been enlarged and now contains a floor space of 50 feet, which makes it the best adapted quarters of any labor organization in the state. In the future all the Trenton locals, which have been meeting in different parts of the city, will hold their sessions there. The convention of the Brotherhood in May will be held in the rooms, which are capable of accommodating the 200 delegates who are expected to be present. The eastern offices of the national executive board, including Vice President Frank H. Hutchins, will be there.

Thus far no work has been done on the new pottery to be built at Salineville by William H. Deldrick and others of this city. In an interview Mr. Deldrick said: "I will begin work as soon as the frost leaves the ground, as I don't wish to begin the foundation and have it fall down. I am anxious to begin work and have made arrangements with the railroad company to construct a switch to the plant in order to facilitate the handling of building material. We will manufacture vitrified china exclusively and will have a large stock in the warehouse by the first of next year. The plant when running full will employ from 175 to 200 persons."

The old firm formerly operating the

Evansville pottery has sold its interest to the firm that will also have the Peoria shop and expect to build a shop at Indianapolis. Mr. A. M. Well, of Evansville, who consummated the deal, has been elected president of the company, and Mr. W. H. Flentke, well known in this city, will be general superintendent of the different plants. There will also be some changes in the Evansville shop, as the intentions are to enlarge the factory, but just how is not known at present.

An Evansville correspondent has some good advice, which every local would do well to follow. He says: Be cautious in the selection of your delegates. Do not choose a man simply because he is a good friend of yours. Elect a man that you know will represent you to the best of his ability, and one that is not afraid to get up and express his views on any question that may come up for discussion, as this will be a convention that will have some very important business to deal with.

E. J. Owens, who has retired from the East Liverpool Potteries company states that he has some plans in view, but has not decided what he will do beyond the fact that he will go into the pottery business again. He will probably either erect a new plant or secure one already built.

It has been announced that Joseph Chetwynd, late of the East Liverpool Potteries company, will open a modeling shop in this city. The location has not been definitely decided upon.

The biscuit kilnmen did not work on Saturday afternoon at the Klondike on account of all the kilns being full. This was caused by a shortage of gas early in the week.

F. F. Deholt, representing the French China company, left this morning for an extended trip through the east. He will be gone several weeks.

J. B. Hess, of Dubois, Pa., was in the city last week, and placed an order for a car load of ware with the East Liverpool Potteries company.

The social and entertainment to be given by local union No. 24, at Wellsville, tomorrow evening promises to be an enjoyable affair.

The Bloch Queensware company, of Fort Smith, is about to establish a wholesale house with $100,000 capital at Oklahoma.

Twenty-five unions have endorsed the project of building a labor lyceum in Akron.

The glost kilnhands have resumed work at the Wallace & Chetwynd.

GERMAN ARMY OFFICERS.

The Abject Deference Shown Them by Civilians Is Amazing.

The respect and deference shown to the German army officer on duty and off duty by his countrymen are wonderful to see, according to a London writer. "Civilians, even compatriots of distinction, on entering the dining room bow to him with formal humility. He acknowledges the obeisances only with a rigid glare of haughty indifference, though he is politely conscious of the coming and going of ladies. The German civilian does not appear to be surprised at or to resent being contemptuously ignored by him, but recognizes him and looks up to him as a superior member of a superior race and continues to make his obeisances, however loftily they are ignored."

But, while the officer is unable to see the civilian at whom he is looking point blank, he never misses observing the entrance and acknowledging the salute of another of his own race. He rises from his seat and stands stiff and erect while the newcomer advances and exchanges formal bows and greetings, and as he recovers the erect position from the bow he brings his heels together with a sharp parade click and waits until his superior has taken a seat before he resumes his own."

There were tremendous ceremonies in eating and drinking, too, especially in drinking. "Each table group lifted their glasses invariably together, as if at the word of command, taking their time apparently from the senior present. Having seized their glasses together and raised them together and simultaneously drunk, they would simultaneously finish and then, holding their glasses before them, would with great ceremony bow to one another before replacing them on the table. It did not matter whether they were drinking beer or claret or the German champagne, which seems to be the especially smart thing to take, there was the same ceremony. When a senior officer went out of the room, all the juniors present rose to stiff attention and bowed as he passed. When a junior rose, he made the round of the table on his way to the door and bowed separately, with a spur jingling heel click every time to every other officer."

No Trotting Consolidation.

W. P. Jams, president of the American Trotting association, denies the statement that there will be a consolidation of the American and National Trotting associations. He says the only foundation for such a report is that committees from the two associations met Jan. 7 at New York to discuss jointly amendments to rules, so that they may be as nearly uniform as possible. The American association will hold its congress in May and the National in June.

Tod and "Skeets" as Tourists.

Tod Sloane and "Skeets" Martin, the jockeys, are to spend the winter in Egypt together. Writing to his friend Sandy McNaughton from Paris, Martin said he and Tod would leave for Egypt in a few weeks and remain in the land of the khedive a couple of months.

The luncheon given by Mrs. Simon R. Huss, formerly Miss Florence Cartwright, of this city, at her home in Pittsburg Saturday afternoon, was a very interesting and pretty affair. It was in honor of the Flabbergaster club of this city. The house was handsomely decorated. There were eight courses and covers were laid for 14. The place of each guest in the dining room was designated by a card bearing her name, the hostess' monogram and a pretty "Gibson girl" picture. The luncheon was a most elaborate affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Huss leave next week for Washington, D. C., where Mr. Huss will look after business matters.

AT THE THEATER

At the opera house tonight Con T. Murphy's latest success "The Game Keeper" will be presented. Messrs. Rowland and Clifford, proprietors of this attraction are featuring Smith O'Brien, a very clever singing and dancing comedian, who will be remembered as the star of "The Ivy Leaf" and "The Fairies Well." "The Game Keeper" differs materially from anything in this line that has ever been produced by this author. While it abounds with pathos, it possesses a vein of comedy never attempted into an Irish comedy drama, thereby furnishing ample opportunity and scope for Mr. O'Brien to introduce his original songs, that he is so famous for.

Manager Norris received a telegram this morning from the Brixton Burglary company, stating that four of their members were sick, making it necessary for them to cancel the engagement for this city tomorrow evening.

The Schiller Dramatic company concluded a successful week at the Grand Saturday night, presenting "Daughters of the Poor."

haps, upon what are known as "import orders," where the merchandise is shipped direct to the purchaser. From evidence which we have seen we have no doubt that merchandise of this description is invoiced at actually less than the cost of production, and this fact is known to the customs officers at New York.

Who is to blame, and how can this condition be rectified?

Some of the largest importers at New York are closely identified with the manufacturers in Europe, and naturally they wish to place their goods upon this market at the lowest possible price. It is evident that in these efforts they have the co-operation of customs officers, and we believe that the trouble begins with the supervising special agent of the treasury department at Washington and the special agent at Paris, for the investigations and reports of these officers have not only been misleading but contrary to reports made by officers of the state department. We believe also that the examiners in the appraiser's office at New York are too much given to friendly consideration of the invoice values of certain importers, and that at least one member of the United States board of general appraisers has been so willing to receive importers' evidence that it has been practically impossible to maintain advances.

Certain it is that the pottery manufacturers are suffering from great undervaluations under this Republican administration, and we sincerely hope that Secretary Shaw will adopt such methods as will give to this industry the protection accorded by the Dingley tariff.

The Sanitary Pressers' local No. 45 at Trenton will hold their first meeting at the new quarters of the Brotherhood of Operative Pottery in the Ribsam building Tuesday evening, when several questions for presentation at the national convention, which meets in May, will be discussed. These questions refer to reforms in the trade, as there are a number of defects now creeping in which need the approval of the national body to remedy. Trenton contains more sanitary workers than any town in the United States, and the questions to be brought before Tuesday night's meeting will have considerable bearing upon the pottery trade. The other locals which have complaints to make at the convention will discuss them at the meetings during the next few weeks. In March the locals will elect their delegates and regulate the pay they are to receive while the convention is in progress.

During the past week very few buyers have been in the city, and hence but few large orders have been secured by the manufacturers. However, there is an encouraging outlook for a good spring trade, and reports from different parts of the country are to the effect that the potteries may soon expect to be rushed. While many orders have been placed with the local firms this year, it is a noticeable fact that a better grade of ware is being purchased than during last season. At some of the plants the decorators have been compelled to work night and day to get out rush orders, and only last week one firm received an order for the most costly decorated toilet set made. It is claimed that not a single buyer who came here during the past season left without placing an order.

The new quarters of the Brotherhood of Operative Pottery in the Ribsam building at Trenton, which have been undergoing renovation during the past three weeks, are now ready for occupancy. The room has been enlarged and now contains a floor space of 50 feet, which makes it the best adapted quarters of any labor organization in the state. In the future all the Trenton locals, which have been meeting in different parts of the city, will hold their sessions there. The convention of the Brotherhood in May will be held in the rooms, which are capable of accommodating the 200 delegates who are expected to be present. The eastern offices of the national executive board, including Vice President Frank H. Hutchins, will be there.

Thus far no work has been done on the new pottery to be built at Salineville by William H. Deidrick and others of this city. In an interview Mr. Deidrick said: "I will begin work as soon as the frost leaves the ground, as I don't wish to begin the foundation and have it fall down. I am anxious to begin work and have made arrangements with the railroad company to construct a switch to the plant in order to facilitate the handling of building material. We will manufacture vitrified china exclusively and will have a large stock in the warehouse by the first of next year. The plant when running full will employ from 175 to 200 persons."

The old firm formerly operating the

Evansville pottery has sold its interest to the firm that will also have the Peoria shop and expect to build a shop at Indianapolis. Mr. A. M. Weil, of Evansville, who consummated the deal, has been elected president of the company, and Mr. W. H. Flentke, well known in this city, will be general superintendent of the different plants. There will also be some changes in the Evansville shop, as the intentions are to enlarge the factory, but just how is not known at present.

An Evansville correspondent has some good advice, which every local would do well to follow. He says: Be cautious in the selection of your delegates. Do not choose a man simply because he is a good friend of yours. Elect a man that you know will represent you to the best of his ability, and one that is not afraid to get up and express his views on any question that may come up for discussion, as this will be a convention that will have some very important business to deal with.

E. J. Owens, who has retired from the East Liverpool Pottery company, states that he has some plans in view, but has not decided what he will do beyond the fact that he will go into the pottery business again. He will probably either erect a new plant or secure one already built.

It has been announced that Joseph Chetwynd, late of the East Liverpool Pottery company, will open a modeling shop in this city. The location has not been definitely decided upon.

The biscuit kilnmen did not work on Saturday afternoon at the Klondike on account of all the kilns being full. This was caused by a shortage of gas early in the week.

F. F. Debolt, representing the French China company, left this morning for an extended trip through the east. He will be gone several weeks.

J. B. Hess, of Dubois, Pa., was in the city last week, and placed an order for a car load of ware with the East Liverpool Pottery company.

The social and entertainment to be given by local union No. 24, at Wellsville, tomorrow evening promises to be an enjoyable affair.

The Bloch Queensware company, of Fort Smith, is about to establish a wholesale house with $100,000 capital at Oklahoma.

Twenty-five unions have endorsed the project of building a labor lyceum in Akron.

The glost kilnhands have resumed work at the Wallace & Chetwynd.

GERMAN ARMY OFFICERS.

The Abject Deference Shown Them by Civilians is Amazing.

The respect and deference shown to the German army officer on duty and off duty by his countrymen are wonderful to see, according to a London writer. "Civilians, even compatriots of distinction, on entering the dining room bow to him with formal humility. He acknowledges the obeisances only with a rigid glare of haughty indifference, though he is politely conscious of the coming and going of ladies. The German civilian does not appear to be surprised at or to resent being contemptuously ignored by him, but recognizes him and looks up to him as a superior member of a superior race and continues to make his obeisances, however loftily they are ignored."

"But, while the officer is unable to see the civilian at whom he is looking point blank, he never misses observing the entrance and acknowledging the salute of another of his own race. He rises from his seat and stands stiff and erect while the newcomer advances and exchanges formal bows and greetings, and as he recovers the erect position from the bow he brings his heels together with a sharp parade click and waits until his superior has taken a seat before he resumes his own."

There were tremendous ceremonies in eating and drinking, too, especially in drinking. "Each table group lifted their glasses invariably together, as if at the word of command, taking their time apparently from the senior present. Having seized their glasses together and raised them together and simultaneously drunk, they would simultaneously finish and then, holding their glasses before them, would with great ceremony bow to one another before replacing them on the table. It did not matter whether they were drinking beer or claret or the German champagne, which seems to be the especially smart thing to take, there was the same ceremony. When a senior officer went out of the room, all the juniors present rose to stiff attention and bowed as he passed. When a junior rose, he made the round of the table on his way to the door and bowed separately, with a spur jingling heel click every time to every other officer."

No Trotting Consolidation. W. P. Ijama, president of the American Trotting association, denies the statement that there will be a consolidation of the American and National Trotting associations. He says the only foundation for such a report is that committees from the two associations met Jan. 7 at New York to discuss jointly amendments to rules, so that they may be as nearly uniform as possible. The American association will hold its congress in May and the National in June.

Tod and "Skeets" as Tourists. Tod Sloane and "Skeets" Martin, the jockeys, are to spend the winter in Egypt together. Writing to his friend Sandy McNaughton from Paris, Martin said he and Tod would leave for Egypt in a few weeks and remain in the land of the khedive a couple of months.

The proposal to send workhouse prisoners from this city to Cleveland instead of Canton is one which council should consider closely and act upon promptly. If it is possible to save five cents a day on the cost of keeping each prisoner the saving will amount to a considerable sum in the course of a year. The city should always save wherever it can, and there is an especially strong reason for economy in expenditures just at present. The cost of transporting prisoners to Cleveland will be little more than to Canton, and the direct railroad journey will take less time than the change of cars now necessary. So far, in the discussion that has taken place on the subject, no good reason has been presented why the proposed change should not be made.

The decision of the Pennsylvania company to erect a railway station in the East End which shall furnish adequate accommodations for the freight and passenger business of that busy and growing section of the city is none the less welcome though tardy. The councilmen who have labored so zealously to bring about the consummation of the popular wish are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts. The evident disposition of the railroad officials to pay more attention to the interests of this city is one that will be hailed with much satisfaction.

Massachusetts in 1888 had 533 miles of street railways. Today she has 2,177 miles, having added 263 last year. The last horse car disappeared in 1901, and the electric railway mileage exceeds that of the steam railways. Manifestly a great social and industrial revolution is going on under the stimulus of the railroad system that is bringing towns and country together and conferring countless direct and indirect benefits upon the people. Labor has participated in the industrial movement and is one of its most conspicuous beneficiaries.

The efforts of local pastors and visiting clergymen in the evangelistic field appear to be bearing excellent fruit. East Liverpool ministers are, among the busiest men in this busy city, and the best of it is that they make their work count.

A California woman has sued for $250,000 damages for the alleged abduction of her husband. The fact that she had not had him long perhaps accounts for the high price at which she valued him.

In one church choir in Akron, 29 women singers are reported to have found husbands in the past four years. The choir director must be kept busy all the time listening to applications for membership.

Prince Henry is to speak English exclusively while on tour in this country. This is obviously the proper thing, and it will conduce not a little to popular interest in his visit.

Youngstown has raised $3,000 for the McKinley monument, and is not yet through. The chance is still open for East Liverpool to do as well.

GERMAN ARMY OFFICERS.

The Abject Deference Shown Them by Civilians is Amazing.

The respect and deference shown to the German army officer on duty and off duty by his countrymen are wonderful to see, according to a London writer. "Civilians, even compatriots of distinction, on entering the dining room bow to him with formal humility. He acknowledges the obeisances only with a rigid glare of haughty indifference, though he is politely conscious of the coming and going of ladies. The German civilian does not appear to be surprised at or to resent being contemptuously ignored by him, but recognizes him and looks up to him as a superior member of a superior race and continues to make his obeisances, however loftily they are ignored."

"But, while the officer is unable to see the civilian at whom he is looking point blank, he never misses observing the entrance and acknowledging the salute of another of his own race. He rises from his seat and stands stiff and erect while the newcomer advances and exchanges formal bows and greetings, and as he recovers the erect position from the bow he brings his heels together with a sharp parade click and waits until his superior has taken a seat before he resumes his own."

There were tremendous ceremonies in eating and drinking, too, especially in drinking. "Each table group lifted their glasses invariably together, as if at the word of command, taking their time apparently from the senior present. Having seized their glasses together and raised them together and simultaneously drunk, they would simultaneously finish and then, holding their glasses before them, would with great ceremony bow to one another before replacing them on the table. It did not matter whether they were drinking beer or claret or the German champagne, which seems to be the especially smart thing to take, there was the same ceremony. When a senior officer went out of the room, all the juniors present rose to stiff attention and bowed as he passed. When a junior rose, he made the round of the table on his way to the door and bowed separately, with a spur jingling heel click every time to every other officer."

No Trotting Consolidation.

W. P. Ijams, president of the American Trotting association, denies the statement that there will be a consolidation of the American and National Trotting associations. He says the only foundation for such a report is that committees from the two associations met Jan. 7 at New York to discuss jointly amendments to rules, so that they may be as nearly uniform as possible. The American association will hold its congress in May and the National in June.

A POWERFUL TELEPHONE CO.

Part of Bond Issue Intended to Build Up the Federal Concern.

Cleveland, Feb. 17.—The $1,000,000 cash bond issue, a part of the $6,500,000 issue incident to the collateral trust plan for financing the properties of the Federal Telephone company, will furnish the money to make the company one of the most powerful independent telephone concerns in the country. While money will be used all over the state, a good share of it will be used in Cleveland and Columbus.

Three thousand additional telephones will, it is said, be placed in the local plant of the Federal Telephone company, and 1,000 will be added to the Columbus exchange.

It can now be said as an assured fact that the uncompleted plant at Detroit will be sold. Whether the move to purchase, headed by Mayor Maybury, of Detroit, will succeed or not is just now an open question.

At the same time it is said that Mayor Maybury is basing his offer on the municipal ownership idea. To work up a municipal ownership scheme will, it is feared, take an indefinite period, and the bankers' committee will probably not be inclined to wait the outcome of what is felt to be a somewhat doubtful proposition. On the other hand, other parties are figuring on the purchase of the plant. It is believed the bankers' committee will sell for a figure something like $400,000, with perhaps interest on the money added.

In regard to the traction situation it was authoritatively announced that a new bid for control of the Big Consolidated would be submitted by the Elkins-Widener people perhaps within a week. At a meeting to be held in Philadelphia today the matter will be taken up and finally settled upon. The expectation is that the syndicate will stick to the effort to lease the property.

TERRORS OF WAR FELT.

Batangas Province Practically Subjugated by Bell's Forces.

Manila, Feb. 17.—General J. Francis Bell has practically cleaned up the insurrection in Batangas province, the troops under his command having made a clean sweep of the district. It is not believed that all the insurgent arms have been captured or surrendered, but that a number of them have been taken by the insurgents to other provinces or safely hidden. The increase of robber bands in the provinces of Tayabas and Cavite show the effects of the drastic measures adopted at Batangas and Laguna provinces.

General Bell says the people of these latter provinces never realized the terrors of war until they personally experienced its hardships, owing to the closing of the ports and the concentration of the natives in the towns. General Bell believes that the insurgent leader Malver is becoming exceedingly unpopular with the Filipinos and that when the natives cease to fear his vengeance, many will be found willing to betray him.

What has been said of Batangas province applies almost equally to Laguna.

Cousin of President Dead.

New York, Feb. 17.—Cornelius Roosevelt, the only surviving son of the late S. Weir Roosevelt and a cousin to President Roosevelt, is dead of heart disease in this city. Mr. Roosevelt was born in this city 54 years ago and was educated at the Troy polytechnic school. Shortly after completing his course there he went abroad and had lived since that time chiefly in Paris.

A POWERFUL TELEPHONE CO.

Part of Bond Issue Intended to Build Up the Federal Concern.

Cleveland, Feb. 17.—The $1,000,000 cash bond issue, a part of the $6,500,000 issue incident to the collaterals, trust plan for financing the properties of the Federal Telephone company, will furnish the money to make the company one of the most powerful independent telephone concerns in the country. While money will be used all over the state, a good share of it will be used in Cleveland and Columbus.

Three thousand additional telephones will, it is said, be placed in the local plant of the Federal Telephone company, and 1,000 will be added to the Columbus exchange.

It can now be said as an assured fact that the uncompleted plant at Detroit will be sold. Whether the move to purchase, headed by Mayor Maybury, of Detroit, will succeed or not is just now an open question.

At the same time it is said that Mayor Maybury is basing his offer on the municipal ownership idea. To work up a municipal ownership scheme will, it is feared, take an indefinite period, and the bankers' committee will probably not feel inclined to await the outcome of what is felt to be a somewhat doubtful proposition. On the other hand, other parties are figuring on the purchase of the plant. It is believed the bankers' committee will sell for a figure something like $400,000, with perhaps interest on the money added.

In regard to the traction situation it was authoritatively announced that a new bid for control of the Big Consolidated would be submitted by the Elkins-Widener people perhaps within a week. At a meeting to be held in Philadelphia today the matter will be taken up and finally settled upon. The expectation is that the syndicate will stick to the effort to lease the property.

TERRORS OF WAR FELT.

Batangas Province Practically Subjugated by Bell's Forces.

Manila, Feb. 17.—General J. Franklin Bell has practically cleaned up the insurrection in Batangas province, the troops under his command having made a clean sweep of the district. It is not believed that all the insurgent arms have been captured or surrendered, but that a number of them have been taken by the insurgents to other provinces or safely hidden. The increase of robber bands in the provinces of Tayabas and Cavite show the effects of the drastic measures adopted at Batangas and Laguna provinces.

General Bell says the people of these latter provinces never realized the terrors of war until they personally experienced its hardships, owing to the closing of the ports and the concentration of the natives in the towns. General Bell believes that the insurgent leader Malver is becoming exceedingly unpopular with the Filipinos and that when the natives cease to fear his vengeance, many will be found willing to betray him.

What has been said of Batangas province applies almost equally to Laguna.

Cousin of President Dead.

New York, Feb. 17.—Cornelius Roosevelt, the only surviving son of the late S. Weir Roosevelt and a cousin to President Roosevelt, is dead of heart disease in this city. Mr. Roosevelt was born in this city 54 years ago and was educated at the Troy polytechnic school. Shortly after completing his course there he went abroad and had lived since that time chiefly in Paris.

The Lenten services at St. Stephen's church, largely attended through the week, brought out unusually large congregations yesterday morning and evening. Rector Weary preached a masterly sermon last evening on the wealth of God's promises and was highly complimented. The address made a profound impression. The music was fine.

At 7:30 this evening Rev. Mr. Weary will preach on "Life in the Wilderness."

ALL WELL, OFF LIZARD

Wireless Message From the Steamer Bearing Henry, When 90 Miles Away.

GERMAN AND AMERICAN AIRS

Played In General Saloon, During Dinner—Prince Says Last Man to Shake His Hand on German Soil Was an American.

London, Feb. 17.—A message transmitted by the Marconi wireless system from the Kronprinz Wilhelm, when that steamer was 90 miles off the Lizard, reported: "All well; weather fine; sea smooth." Southampton, Feb. 17.—The Kronprinz Wilhelm arrived here yesterday morning. Prince Henry's voyage to England was uneventful. The Kronprinz Wilhelm proceeded slowly from Bremerhaven down the Weser under a cloudless sky and amidst cheers from the people lining the shore. The prince and his suite walked upon the upper deck with some of the other passengers. Later Prince Henry proceeded to the bridge, where he held a long conversation with the captain of the steamer and showed the greatest interest in all the details of the ship.

Played German and American Airs.

The prince, with his suite, appeared at dinner, occupying a table in an alcove of the general saloon. During the meal the band played German and American airs. The prince's table naturally attracted the undivided attention of the other passengers, but Prince Henry did not seem to mind this. After dinner the prince spent an hour in the smoking room.

He was up early in the morning, walking the deck. In the course of a conversation he again expressed the pleasure he feels at visiting the United States, and added:

"Why, the last man I shook hands with on German ground was an American, the Berlin representative of the Associated Press."

At about half-past 10 a. m. the Isle of Wight and the forts of Portsmouth were sighted. It was a day of glorious sunshine. With the band playing and with flags flying, the steamer made her way up Southampton waters to the dock. Here the North German Lloyd steamship company, contrary to the desire of Prince Henry, had taken the most elaborate precautions. The special train from London, carrying passengers for the Kronprinz Wilhelm, arrived at Southampton at 11:30, but was not allowed to proceed to the dock until the steamer bearing Prince Henry had been made fast. At 1 o'clock the dock swarmed with policemen and detectives, and the steamer tickets of the Southampton passengers were repeatedly scrutinized.

Prince Visited the Bridge.

Prince Henry remained on the bridge of the steamer until the members of the German embassy at London, who came down here to welcome him, went on board. He then received them in his saloon.

The Kronprinz Wilhelm sailed for Cherbourg at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Among her passengers are George and Allison Armour, Sir Charles Cust, Spencer Eddy, first secretary of the American legation at Constantinople, and Miss Catherine Eddy, his sister, and Mrs. Moreton Frewen, sister of Mrs. Cornwallis West.

Cherbourg, Feb. 17.—The Kronprinz Wilhelm arrived in the roadstead at 8:40 last evening, after a pleasant passage from Southampton. The weather was splendid and there was no wind. The steamer stayed here but a short time, during which the band played selections from various airs. The Kronprinz Wilhelm resumed her journey for New York at 9 o'clock.

Wreath For Girl's Grave.

New York, Feb. 17.—The regular Sunday services prescribed by the Lutheran church took place on the Hohenzollern at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. They were conducted by Admiral Von Baudissin and were attended by all the members of the crew. At the close the commander of the imperial yacht prepared to carry out the cable instructions from Emperor William to place a wreath on the tomb of Miss Beatrice Goelet, daughter of the late Robert Goelet, and of Mrs. Harriet Warren Goelet, who died on Feb. 10, of pneumonia. The wreath, which was made in a bed of smilax, was composed of white roses and lilies of the valley, and on the inside of the circle was a row of white tulips. It was quite large and was bound with broad white silk ribbon, the streamers of which were trimmed with gold and bore the monogram of the kaiser and the imperial crest. The wreath was delivered at the Hohenzollern at 11 o'clock and a few minutes later Admiral Von Baudissin, in full uniform, accompanied by his aide, Captain Von Der Osten, also in uniform, left for the Goelet home on Fifth avenue. The wreath was left at the residence and later carried to Woodlawn cemetery and placed on the tomb by two members of the Goelet family without any ceremony.

While the admiral was away from the Hohenzollern, Captain Von Hollen and Lieutenants Rebusburg and Seidensticker were entertained at the German club house in Hoboken.

Admiral Von Baudissin and several members of his staff were the guests last evening of Karl Buentz, German consul general at this port.

Lieutenant Rebusburg said last night that the admiral intends leaving for Philadelphia on the 9 o'clock train via the Pennsylvania railroad this morning. He will visit relatives and expects to remain in Philadelphia until Tuesday afternoon.

TWO RAILROADERS KILLED.

Victims of a Head-On Collision on P. McK. & Y. Division, Near Connellsville, Pa.

Connellsville, Pa., Feb. 17.—An engineer and fireman of the Pittsburgh, McKeesport and Youghiogheny division of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad were pinned under wreckage at Round Bottom, near here for four hours while 40 wreck crew men worked to save them. When reached both were dead. The wreck was the result of one of the worst head-on collisions known on the division for years.

The Dead. Engineer T. W. Lyons, of McKees Rocks, crushed and burned. Fireman P. W. Desot, of Buffalo, boarded at McKees Rocks.

A dense fog hung over the river valley all day Saturday and made train running hazardous. Train No. 63, northbound, with loads of coke, was running at a fair speed. There was a sharp curve where the accident happened. The men on the northbound train saw the danger and jumped, escaping uninjured. The unfortunate engineer and fireman also tried to do this, but were caught in the wreckage before they could leave their engine. The engines were demolished and cars piled up over them. Twenty cars from each of the trains were wrecked. Eighteen hours elapsed before traffic was restored. The remains of the two dead men were shipped to McKees Rocks last evening.

TWO OF BOYS IMPROVED.

One Had Spell of Restlessness—Mrs. Roosevelt at Infirmary Most of Sunday.

Boston, Feb. 17.—The three sick boys in the Groton school infirmary had a very quiet Sunday, and from a medical point of view a satisfactory one, although in the morning there was some uneasiness about Howard Potter. Dr. L. C. Shattuck was recalled by Dr. Warren for consultation in his case, and later it was stated that young Potter had not had a setback, but simply a spell of restlessness. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., and William Gammell, Jr., continued to show much improvement.

Mrs. Roosevelt spent the greater portion of the day at the infirmary with her son and did not leave for the Gardner house until late in the afternoon. Miss Alice Roosevelt went for a ride in the morning with Mr. Grafton D. Cushing, of Boston, who spent Sunday here. She lunched later at the home of Mr. John Lawrence and Sunday afternoon spent considerable time at the infirmary. Mrs. James Roosevelt, an aunt, arrived here Saturday night.

Twelve Killed and Over 40 Injured Before Reaching Cover of Block House

Pretoria, Feb. 17.—One hundred and fifty mounted infantrymen, while patrolling the Klip river, south of Johannesburg, Feb. 12, surrounded a farm house where they suspected Boers were in hiding. Souls May Die

It appears to be imagined that if one can get past physical death without his soul ceasing to exist the everlasting duration of his soul's existence is thereby insured. That is taking a good deal for granted.

The very expression "a live soul" is rather immediately suggestive of a dead soul, and there is a great deal in the Bible even about dead souls, souls that have been alive, but have died. "The soul that sinneth it shall die." "Sin when it is finished bringeth forth death"—not the death of the body, but the soul's death. "The wages of sin is death." I assume that those expressions mean what they say. A live thing will live just so long as the conditions are kept up that its life depends upon.

THERE IS NOTHING IN SCRIPTURE OR IN THINGS THAT ENCOURAGES US TO FEEL THAT A SOUL CAN BE KEPT FROM DYING ANY MORE THAN A BODY UNLESS IT IS TAKEN CARE OF.

There is no warrant from Bible or from nature for supposing that a soul carries within itself a policy of insurance against its own eventual obliteration.

We may be immortal, but if we prove to be such it will be because we have succeeded in being such. It may be that eternity is the normal period of a soul's life. So threescore and ten or four-score years is the normal period of the life of the body, but a great many bodies die before that time. A BODY THAT DOES NOT HAVE EXCELLENT CARE TAKEN OF IT IS ALMOST CERTAIN TO DIE A GOOD WHILE BEFORE. A SOUL THAT DOES NOT HAVE GOOD CARE TAKEN OF IT IS SIMILARLY LIKELY TO DIE A GOOD WHILE BEFORE ETERNITY ENDS.

In this I am not extemporizing anything, but simply reasoning from the analogy of nature and from the intimations of God's word. If it is the intention of nature that a soul should reach that spiritual longevity expressed by the word "eternal," the soul will have to pay for the superb prerogative by fulfilling the conditions and taking good care of its spiritual health. Once you begin to respect the intimations of nature and to regard the suggestions of God's word you discover that while the mere doctrine of immortality may be settled by philosophical or theological argumentation THE QUESTION WHETHER YOU PERSONALLY WILL BE IMMORTAL IS GOING TO BE SETTLED BY YOU.

The only certain security against the soul's death is in its possession of ingredients that are of such sort that death has no relevancy to them. Merely stopping once in awhile in the midst of our hurry and pathetically wondering whether everything does not leave off at the graveyard is a mode of procedure that we should call silly if it were not so common.

WE OUGHT CERTAINLY TO SPEND AS MUCH THOUGHT AND EFFORT IN GETTING READY TO BE IMMORTAL AS WE SPEND IN GETTING OUR BODIES READY TO SURVIVE TO THREESCORE AND TEN.

Our souls will doubtless live as long as there is in them enough of what we may call spirit life to overcome the menacing influences to which, whether this side of the grave or another, the soul is liable.

trap and in a position where they were unable to make any defense. Eight of the British officers made a gallant effort and defended the ridge with carbines and revolvers until they were overpowered. The British had two officers and 10 men killed and several officers and 40 men wounded before the force was able to fall back under cover of a block house.

STUDENT KILLED HIMSELF.

Second One at Ann Arbor Within Two Weeks.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 17.—Albert C. Klein, of Chicago, a student in the University of Michigan, committed suicide by taking prussic acid. This is the second suicide among the university students within the last two weeks. No reason is known for Klein's act. He left a note saying his life was a failure, but giving no reason why.

Klein was a good student and stood well in his classes. He was apparently happy at all times. Of late he has been troubled slightly with insomnia and has also had several light attacks of malaria, but his general health has been good. He arose early and after taking a bath swallowed the poison, which he had no trouble in securing, as he was a chemist.

Vincennes, Ind., Feb. 17.—At Wheatland, this county, there is a negro settlement. The negroes work for white farmers. All are quiet and inoffensive, but there is a prejudice against them.

The following notices, signed "Firebugs," were found and have produced a sensation: "Notice is hereby given that any man who employs negro labor after the first day of March, or harbors, leases or rents land to any negro their houses will be burned after the first day of April."

In this I am not extemporizing anything, but simply reasoning from the analogy of nature and from the intimations of God's word. If it is the intention of nature that a soul should reach that spiritual longevity expressed by the word "eternal," the soul will have to pay for the superb prerogative by fulfilling the conditions and taking good care of its spiritual health. Once you begin to respect the intimations of nature and to regard the suggestions of God's word you discover that while the mere doctrine of immortality may be settled by philosophical or theological argumentation THE QUESTION WHETHER YOU PERSONALLY WILL BE IMMORTAL IS GOING TO BE SETTLED BY YOU.

The only certain security against the soul's death is in its possession of ingredients that are of such sort that death has no relevancy to them. Merely stopping once in awhile in the midst of our hurry and pathetically wondering whether everything does not leave off at the graveyard is a mode of procedure that we should call silly if it were not so common.

WE OUGHT CERTAINLY TO SPEND AS MUCH THOUGHT AND EFFORT IN GETTING READY TO BE IMMORTAL AS WE SPEND IN GETTING OUR BODIES READY TO SURVIVE TO THREESCORE AND TEN.

Our souls will doubtless live as long as there is in them enough of what we may call spirit life to overcome the menacing influences to which, whether this side of the grave or another, the soul is liable.

trap and in a position where they were unable to make any defense. Eight of the British officers made a gallant effort and defended the ridge with carbines and revolvers until they were overpowered. The British had two officers and 10 men killed and several officers and 40 men wounded before the force was able to fall back under cover of a block house.

STUDENT KILLED HIMSELF.

Second One at Ann Arbor Within Two Weeks.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 17.—Albert C. Klein, of Chicago, a student in the University of Michigan, committed suicide by taking prussic acid. This is the second suicide among the university students within the last two weeks. No reason is known for Klein's act. He left a note saying his life was a failure, but giving no reason why.

Klein was a good student and stood well in his classes. He was apparently happy at all times. Of late he has been troubled slightly with insomnia and has also had several light attacks of malaria, but his general health has been good. He arose early and after taking a bath swallowed the poison, which he had no trouble in securing, as he was a chemist.

The following notices, signed "Firebugs," were found and have produced a sensation: "Notice is hereby given that any man who employs negro labor after the first day of March, or harbors, leases or rents land to any negro, their houses will be burned after the first day of April."

ALL WELL, OFF LIZARD

Wireless Message From the Steamer Bearing Henry, When 90 Miles Away.

GERMAN AND AMERICAN AIRS

Played In General Saloon, During Dinner—Prince Says Last Man to Shake His Hand on German Soil Was an American.

London, Feb. 17.—A message transmitted by the Marconi wireless system from the Kronprinz Wilhelm, when that steamer was 90 miles off the Lizard, reported: "All well; weather fine; sea smooth."

Southampton, Feb. 17.—The Kronprinz Wilhelm arrived here yesterday morning. Prince Henry's voyage to England was uneventful.

The Kronprinz Wilhelm proceeded slowly from Bremerhaven down the Weser under a cloudless sky and amidst cheers from the people lining the shore. The prince and his suite walked upon the upper deck with some of the other passengers. Later Prince Henry proceeded to the bridge, where he held a long conversation with the captain of the steamer and showed the greatest interest in all the details of the ship.

Played German and American Airs.

The prince, with his suite, appeared at dinner, occupying a table in an alcove of the general saloon. During the meal the band played German and American airs. The prince's table naturally attracted the undivided attention of the other passengers, but Prince Henry did not seem to mind this. After dinner the prince spent an hour in the smoking room.

He was up early in the morning, walking the deck. In the course of a conversation he again expressed the pleasure he feels at visiting the United States, and added:

"Why, the last man I shook hands with on German ground was an American, the Berlin representative of the Associated Press."

At about half-past 10 a. m. the Isle of Wight and the forts of Portsmouth were sighted. It was a day of glorious sunshine. With the band playing and with flags flying, the steamer made her way up Southampton waters to the dock. Here the North German Lloyd steamship company, contrary to the desire of Prince Henry, had taken the most elaborate precautions. The special train from London, carrying passengers for the Kronprinz Wilhelm, arrived at Southampton at 11.30, but was not allowed to proceed to the dock until the steamer bearing Prince Henry had been made fast. At 1 o'clock the dock swarmed with policemen and detectives, and the steamship tickets of the Southampton passengers were repeatedly scrutinized.

Prince Visited the Bridge.

Prince Henry remained on the bridge of the steamer until the members of the German embassy at London, who came down here to welcome him, went on board. He then received them in his salon.

The Kronprinz Wilhelm sailed for Cherbourg at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Among her passengers are George and Allison Armour, Sir Charles Cust, Spencer Eddy, first secretary of the American legation at Constantinople, and Miss Catherine Eddy, his sister, and Mrs. Moreton Ewen, sister of Mrs. Cornwallis West.

Cherbourg, Feb. 17.—The Kronprinz Wilhelm arrived in the roadstead at 8.40 last evening, after a pleasant passage from Southampton. The weather was splendid and there was no wind. The steamer stayed here but a short time, during which the band played selections from various airs. The Kronprinz Wilhelm resumed her journey for New York at 3 o'clock.

carry out the cabled instructions from Emperor William to place a wreath on the tomb of Miss Beatrice Goelet, daughter of the late Robert Goelet, and of Mrs. Harriett Warren Goelet, who died on Feb. 10, of pneumonia. The wreath, which was made in a bed of smilax, was composed of white roses and lilies of the valley, and on the inside of the circle was a row of white tulips. It was quite large and was bound with broad white silk ribbon, the streamers of which were trimmed with gold and bore the monogram of the kaiser and the imperial crest. The wreath was delivered at the Hohenzollern at 11 o'clock and a few minutes later Admiral Von Baudissin, in full uniform, accompanied by his aide, Captain Von Der Osten, also in uniform, left for the Goelet home on Fifth avenue. The wreath was left at the residence and later carried to Woodlawn cemetery and placed on the tomb by two members of the Goelet family without any ceremony.

While the admiral was away from the Hohenzollern, Captain Von Holtzen and Lieutenants Rebensburg and Seidensticker were entertained at the German club house in Hoboken.

Admiral Von Baudissin and several members of his staff were the guests last evening of Karl Buentz, German consul general at this port.

Lieutenant Rebensburg said last night that the admiral intends leaving for Philadelphia on the 9 o'clock train via the Pennsylvania railroad this morning. He will visit relatives and expects to remain in Philadelphia until Tuesday afternoon.

TWO RAILROADERS KILLED.

Victims of a Head-On Collision on P. McK. & Y. Division, Near Connellsville, Pa.

Connellsville, Pa., Feb. 17.—An engineer and fireman of the Pittsburgh, McKeesport and Youngbushen division of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad were pinned under wreckage at Round Bottom, near here, for four hours while 40 wreck crew men worked to save them. When reached both were dead. The wreck was the result of one of the worst head-on collisions known on the division for years.

The Dead.

Engineer T. W. Lyons, of McKees Rocks, crushed and burned.

Fireman P. W. Desot, of Buffalo, boarded at McKees Rocks.

A dense fog hung over the river valley all day Saturday and made train running hazardous. Train No. 63, northbound, with loads of coke, was running at a fair speed. There was a sharp curve where the accident happened. The men on the north-bound train saw the danger and jumped, escaping uninjured. The unfortunate engineer and fireman also tried to do this, but were caught in the wreckage before they could leave their engine. The engines were demolished and cars piled up over them. Twenty cars from each of the trains were wrecked. Eighteen hours elapsed before traffic was restored. The remains of the two dead men were shipped to McKees Rocks last evening.

TWO OF BOYS IMPROVED.

One Had Spell of Restlessness—Mrs. Roosevelt at Infirmary Most of Sunday.

Boston, Feb. 17.—The three sick boys in the Groton school infirmary had a very quiet Sunday, and from a medical point of view a satisfactory one, although in the morning there was some uneasiness about Howard Potter. Dr. L. C. Shattuck was recalled by Dr. Warren for consultation in his case, and later it was stated that young Potter had not had a setback, but simply a spell of restlessness. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., and William Gammell, Jr., continued to show much improvement.

Mrs. Roosevelt spent the greater portion of the day at the infirmary with her son and did not leave for the Gardner house until late in the afternoon. Miss Alice Roosevelt went for a ride in the morning with Mr. Grafton D. Cushing, of Boston, who spent Sunday here. She lunched later at the home of Mr. John Lawrence and Sunday afternoon spent considerable time at the infirmary. Mrs. James Roosevelt, an aunt, arrived here Saturday night.

BOERS TRAPPED THE BRITISH.

Twelve Killed and Over 40 Injured Before Reaching Cover of Block House

Pretoria, Feb. 17.—One hundred and fifty mounted infantrymen, while patrolling the Klip river, south of Johannesburg, Feb. 12, surrounded a farm house where they suspected Boers were in hiding. A single Boer broke away from the house and the British started to pursue him. The Boer climbed a kopje, the British following. Immediately a heavy fire opened upon them from three sides. The British found themselves in a

Souls May Die

It appears to be imagined that if one can get past physical death without his soul ceasing to exist the everlasting duration of his soul's existence is thereby insured. That is taking a good deal for granted.

The very expression "a live soul" is rather immediately suggestive of a dead soul, and there is a great deal in the Bible even about dead souls, souls that have been alive, but have died. "The soul that sinneth it shall die." "Sin when it is finished bringeth forth death"—not the death of the body, but the soul's death. "The wages of sin is death." I assume that those expressions mean what they say. A live thing will live just so long as the conditions are kept up that its life depends upon.

THERE IS NOTHING IN SCRIPTURE OR IN THINGS THAT ENCOURAGES US TO FEEL THAT A SOUL CAN BE KEPT FROM DYING ANY MORE THAN A BODY UNLESS IT IS TAKEN CARE OF.

There is no warrant from Bible or from nature for supposing that a soul carries within itself a policy of insurance against its own eventual obliteration.

We may be immortal, but if we prove to be such it will be because we have succeeded in being such. It may be that eternity is the normal period of a soul's life. So threescore and ten or four-score years is the normal period of the life of the body, but a great many bodies die before that time. A BODY THAT DOES NOT HAVE EXCELLENT CARE TAKEN OF IT IS ALMOST CERTAIN TO DIE A GOOD WHILE BEFORE. A SOUL THAT DOES NOT HAVE GOOD CARE TAKEN OF IT IS SIMILARLY LIKELY TO DIE A GOOD WHILE BEFORE ETERNITY ENDS.

In this I am not extemporizing anything, but simply reasoning from the analogy of nature and from the intimations of God's word. If it is the intention of nature that a soul should reach that spiritual longevity expressed by the word "eternal," the soul will have to pay for the superb prerogative by fulfilling the conditions and taking good care of its spiritual health. Once you begin to respect the intimations of nature and to regard the suggestions of God's word you discover that while the mere doctrine of immortality may be settled by philosophical or theological argumentation THE QUESTION WHETHER YOU PERSONALLY WILL BE IMMORTAL IS GOING TO BE SETTLED BY YOU.

Aaron R. Guthrie, Diamond St. Both Phones 68-

The National Period of American Literature

BY LORENZO SEARS, LIT. D.,
Professor of American Literature in
Brown University.

There was no immediate change in literary habits when the independence of the colonies was established in 1783. A people could not adjust themselves to a new condition of liberty in a day or a year after their life of a century and three-quarters as subject provinces. Neither could they get out of the ruts of thought and expression in which they had been brought up. Moreover, in the five years succeeding the end of the war there were causes which continued to literature the complexion it had during the war. If it was controversial then, when the majority were for freedom from British rule, what could be expected when opinion was much divided about the form of government that should be adopted? Indeed, opposition and disputation had become chronic. The Declaration of Independence was passed with difficulty, the war was prolonged by dissent, and now the plan of union was to be five years in getting itself adjusted to provincial notions.

This process made a continuation of political literature inevitable. Men who eight years before dropped their pens and picked up swords now hung these over the fireplace and returned to their desks. Many who had in these years kept up a wordy war protracted it until the constitution was adopted, believing that the fruits of all the sacrifice made would be lost with the rejection of their own theories of government. Hence followed a new installment of political literature whose importance in tiding the new nation over dangerous shoals cannot be overestimated.

The men who contributed to it were principally those who had guided the war to its successful issue. There was enough opposition among them to give zest and point to the writings of all in discussing the question of changing the confederacy to a union of states. The leaders in this great debate were Samuel Adams, Patrick Henry and Thomas Jefferson on the side of the established government.

On the other side were ranged Alexander Hamilton, John Jay and James Madison as leaders of the party for the adoption of the constitution. With them were associated George Washington, John Adams, Fisher Ames, Thomas Paine, Albert Gallatin, John Marshall and Joseph Story. The first three of these made The Federalist famous as the leading collection of political writings in this long and violent controversy. The constitution had been called a "triple headed monster" and "as deep and wicked a conspiracy as ever was invented in the darkest ages against the liberties of a free people." Evidently some one must arise to its defense and explanation. Hamilton undertook this with the help of Madison and Jay in 85 short essays, published in The Independent Gazetteer of New York in 1787-8, of which Hamilton himself wrote 51. They did for the adoption of the constitution what Paine's essays did for the Declaration of Independence. The writers did not have the creation of literature in mind so much as of a new government. Incidentally they accomplished the first while laboring with all their might for the second, producing not only "the most profound and suggestive treatise on government that has ever been written," but also a piece of writing which reflects the spirit of liberty guided and controlled by the wisest law. In addition, it has literary values which cannot be overlooked. The clearness and directness of the opening sentences declare in unmistakable terms the purpose of the writer and the importance of the question to be discussed.

"After an unequivocal experience of the inefficacy of the subsisting federal government, you are called upon to deliberate on a new constitution for the United States of America. The subject speaks its own importance, comprehending in its consequences nothing less than the existence of the union, the safety and welfare of the parts of which it is composed, the fate of an empire in many respects the most interesting in the world. It has been frequently remarked that it seems to have been reserved to the people of this country by their conduct and example to decide the important question whether societies of men are really capable or not of establishing good government from reflection and choice or whether they are forever destined to depend for their political constitutions on accident and force. The crisis at which we are arrived may with propriety be regarded as the era in which that decision is to be made." The man who could write this and what follows in the cabin of a river sloop had his subject well in hand, to say the least. He also had knowledge of the times sufficient to recognize that the period was a critical one in the life of the nation, and that imperialism threatened its existence on one side and anarchy on the other. His own aim was to call men away from the separatism and individualism which had been bred in and in from colonial beginnings in colonial seclusion and exclusiveness now cropping out in the rights which each new state desired to keep, surrendering little or nothing to the union of all, which alone had brought them through recent perils. He frankly admits that he is on the side of this union, a view of affairs not so familiar then as it is now and regarded by many with doubt and suspicion. They considered 13 states along the coast as too many to be held together, or, if possible, that centralization of government would end in imperialism. Accordingly Hamilton proposes to meet their objections and to show the utility of union, the insufficiency of the present confederation, the necessity of a stronger government, the conformity of the constitution to republican principles, the additional security it will afford to liberty and to property and the inevitable dismemberment that would follow a rejection of the proposed constitution.

It is impracticable of course to follow the discussion of these vital topics here even in outline. It must be read to appreciate the wisdom of its views and the dignity and moderation with which they are presented. Much may be argued for the good sense of a people to whom such a series of articles could be addressed with the expectation that they would be carefully read and thoughtfully pondered. That they were so received is evident from their continuation through 85 numbers and their repeated issue in edition after edition when they were completed. That they were successful in their purpose is established by the fact that the particular community to which they were addressed was induced to do that which the majority had informally declared it would not do, and the people of New York, accepting this interpretation of the constitution as true, determined to favor its establishment between itself and the other states of the union. The Federalist had a similar efficacy wherever it was read. The men who wrote it were Americans rather than provincials. They were statesmen and foremost thinkers in a time which called for profound and earnest reflection on questions of immense consequence. Other papers were written by their peers in other journals, but this collection is pre-eminent among them all.

Accordingly it has seemed imperative to call particular attention to a production which is sometimes spoken of as a series of newspaper articles or as a partisan view of a question that has long since been settled. That these articles were not ephemeral is shown by their repeated reproduction to the present day in 20 editions. That they are something more than a Whig document is evidenced by the fact that they are the best interpreters of the intentions and purposes which the builders of the nation had when they framed the constitution of the United States. This instrument itself cannot be well understood without the contemporary commentary of The Federalist.

Reference has already been made to the writings of the group of statesmen who were both the product of this critical period and the agents in bringing it about. They were as a rule voluminous writers. When the few books which were at their command are considered, as compared with present accumulations, their creative resources are remarkable. They pondered diligently and wrote continuously. As a consequence their works fill volumes. These have not been perused or often consulted by the average reader in the latter part of the century as they were in the former, but with the revival of interest in American history and literature and the growing habit of investigating original documents and writings the worth of them will be rediscovered. Especially to those who incline to a study of the least political science and the nature of republican forms of government will these writings of the founders of our own be a literature in which they may take both delight and pride. It was this which first won attention to us in other countries—in England because the loss of colonies was impending, on the continent of Europe because of a widespread sympathy with the cause which was so clearly stated and ably defended. The new nation had not yet attained to the graces of literature, but the strength and vigor which ought to precede these were abundant. The foundations of empire and of letters were laid simultaneously by Franklin and Adams and Otis, by Jefferson and Henry and Hamilton, by John Adams and Quincy Adams, by Paine and Marshall and the rest of the constellation of publicists which ruled in the ascendancy of the birth of the nation.

Much Feeling Aroused by His Speech, Which May Figure In House Debate.

AN ACTIVE WEEK EXPECTED.

War Revenue Reduction Bill to Be Taken Up Today—Danish Treaty May Be Taken Up In Senate Today—Forecast of Congress.

Washington, Feb. 17.—The coming week promises to be one of unusual activity in the house of representatives. Beginning today the war revenue reduction bill will be taken up, with two days for debate, and a stringent special rule bringing the bill to a vote at 3 p. m. Tuesday, without intervening motion to recommend or amendments other than those of a verbal character proposed by the committee. At the outset there promises to be a spirited contest on the adoption of the special rule, as the minority will protest against the cutting off of amendments and the motion to recommend. There is little doubt, however, that the rule will be adopted. When the debate proper begins there will be hardly more than three hours on each side. This time will be given to the members of the ways and means committee, who in turn will apportion it among their colleagues. The passage of the bill is a foregone conclusion, as the minority members as well as the majority favor it, the only difference being as to the amount of reduction and the extent to which tariff changes should go. Aside from the tariff issue, it would be no surprise if the sensational speech of Representative Wheeler, of Kentucky, on Prince Henry's visit and other foreign matters figures in the discussion, as much feeling has been aroused by the speech.

Indian Bill to Be Taken Up.

The Indian appropriation bill will be taken up on Wednesday, with two other appropriation bills, the diplomatic and consular, and the postoffice in reserve. Chairman Sherman, of the Indian affairs committee, expects to occupy two or three days, so that the other appropriation bills probably will go over until the following week. In that case private claims will get some consideration the latter part of the week.

There are several important measures of general legislation now ready for consideration, including the anti-anarchy bill and the Pacific cable bill. The intention, however, is not to consider these general measures so long as any appropriation bills remain unacted on.

Besides the work on the floor of the house it is expected that the coming week may see some progress in the ways and means committee, on the subject of Cuban reciprocity, which was deferred until after the war revenue reduction measure had been passed.

Washington, Feb. 17.—The greater part of the day today will be devoted by the senate to an effort to ratify the treaty with Denmark for the cession of the Danish West Indies. This proceeding will be in executive session, and there is no certainty as to whether one day will be sufficient for the purpose or not. Thus far there has been no marked evidence of opposition to the treaty, but Senator Bacon has indicated a purpose of offering an amendment to the agreement and of discussing it to some extent. What further discussion may develop remains to be seen.

Action May Be Postponed.

If the consideration of the treaty is not concluded Monday its final disposition will probably be postponed.

The machinery of a mill that grinds day and night has to shut down now and then for repairs. It is the same way with your nerves. Overwork, close application, our ways of living, bring about nerve waste that sets up symptoms of various kinds. It may be failing strength, weakness, languor, headache, sleeplessness, etc. Whatever it is nerve force is lacking, and the means of restoring rests with Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills. A great many people in East Liverpool vouch for this. Among them is Mr. James Phipps, of No. 302 Third street, East Liverpool, O., who says: "Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills I got at Larkins' drug store, corner Sixth and East Market streets, are a fine nerve tonic. As a result of hard work I was generally debilitated, nervous and could not sleep. I needed rebuilding and found in the nerve pills the medicine needed. They have the power to steady and strengthen the nerves, give restful sleep and general vigor to the system at large."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are sold at 50 cents a box at dealers, or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine company, Buffalo, N. Y. See that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., are on every package.

sition probably will be postponed for several days, as Senator Lodge has agreed to sidetrack the Philippine bill only for one day. With reference to the Philippine bill it is altogether probable that a vote will be reached during the latter part of the week. The Democrats have been in conference on the subject, and have reached the conclusion that they would be able to conclude their presentation of their opposition to the bill in a few more speeches. An agreement fixing a time to vote is likely to be reached Tuesday, and the indications now are that next Friday or next Saturday will be named as the day for deciding the fate of the bill.

There are a few set speeches to be delivered on the bill, but most of the speeches toward the close of the debate will be brief.

By unanimous consent the census bill will be disposed of after the Danish treaty, and before the debate on the Philippine bill is taken. It is expected that a vote will be reached on the census bill after very little more debate.

EDITED BY E. BENJAMIN ANDREWS LL.D.

The National Period of American Literature

BY LORENZO SEARS, LIT. D.,
Professor of American Literature in
Brown University.

THE ruts of thought and expression in which they had been brought up. Moreover, in the five years succeeding the end of the war there were causes which continued to literature the complexion it had during the war. If it was controversial then, when the majority were for freedom from British rule, what could be expected when opinion was much divided about the form of government that should be adopted? Indeed, opposition and disputation had become chronic. The Declaration of Independence was passed with difficulty, the war was prolonged by dissent, and now the plan of union was to be five years in getting itself adjusted to provincial notions.

This process made a continuation of political literature inevitable. Men who eight years before dropped their pens and picked up swords now hung these over the fireplace and returned to their desks. Many who had in these years kept up a wordy war protracted it until the constitution was adopted, believing that the fruits of all the sacrifice made would be lost with the rejection of their own theories of government. Hence followed a new installment of political literature whose importance in tiding the new nation over dangerous shoals cannot be overestimated.

The men who contributed to it were principally those who had guided the war to its successful issue. There was enough opposition among them to give zest and point to the writings of all in discussing the question of changing the confederacy to a union of states. The leaders in this great debate were Samuel Adams, Patrick Henry and Thomas Jefferson on the side of the established government.

On the other side were ranged Alexander Hamilton, John Jay and James Madison as leaders of the party for the adoption of the constitution. With them were associated George Washington, John Adams, Fisher Ames, Thomas Paine, Albert Gallatin, John Marshall and Joseph Story. The first three of these made The Federalist famous as the leading collection of political writings in this long and violent controversy. The constitution had been called a "triple headed monster" and "as deep and wicked a conspiracy as ever was invented in the darkest ages against the liberties of a free people." Evidently some one must arise to its defense and explanation. Hamilton undertook this with the help of Madison and Jay in 85 short essays, published in The Independent Gasetteer of New York in 1787-8, of which Hamilton himself wrote 51. They did for the adoption of the constitution what Paine's essays did for the Declaration of Independence. The writers did not have the creation of literature in mind so much as of a new government. Incidentally they accomplished the first while laboring with all their might for the second, producing not only "the most profound and suggestive treatise on government that has ever been written," but also a piece of writing which reflects the spirit of liberty guided and controlled by the wisest law. In addition, it has literary values which cannot be overlooked. The clearness and directness of the opening sentences declare in unmistakable terms the purpose of the writer and the importance of the question to be discussed.

"After an unequivocal experience of the inefficacy of the subsisting federal government, you are called upon to deliberate on a new constitution for the United States of America. The subject speaks its own importance, comprehending in its consequences nothing less than the existence of the union, the safety and welfare of the parts of which it is composed, the fate of an empire in many respects the most interesting in the world. It has been frequently remarked that it seems to have been reserved to the people of this country by their conduct and example to decide the important question whether societies of men are really capable or not of establishing good government from reflection and choice or whether they are forever destined to depend for their political constitutions on accident and force. The crisis at which we are arrived may with propriety be regarded as the era in which that decision is to be made." The man who could write this and what follows in the cabin of a river sloop had his subject well in hand, to say the least. He also had knowledge of the times sufficient to recognize that the period was a critical one in the life of the nation, and that imperialism threatened its existence on one side and anarchy on the other. His own aim was to call men away from the separatism and individualism which had been bred in and from colonial beginnings in colonial seclusion and exclusiveness now cropping out in the rights which each new state desired to keep, surrendering little or nothing to the union of all, which alone had brought them through recent perils. He frankly admits that he is on the side of this union, a view of affairs not so familiar then as it is now and regarded by many with doubt and suspicion. They considered 13 states along the coast as too many to be held together, or, if possible, that centralization of government would end in imperialism. Accordingly Hamilton proposes to meet their objections and to show the utility of union, the insufficiency of the present confederation, the necessity of a stronger government, the conformity of the constitution to republican principles, the additional security it will afford to liberty and to property and the inevitable dismemberment that would follow a rejection of the proposed constitution.

It is impracticable of course to follow the discussion of these vital topics here even in outline. It must be read to appreciate the wisdom of its views and the dignity and moderation with which they are presented. Much may be argued for the good sense of a people to whom such a series of articles could be addressed with the expectation that they would be carefully read and thoughtfully pondered. That they were so received is evident from their continuation through 85 numbers and their repeated issue in edition after edition when they were completed. That they were successful in their purpose is established by the fact that the particular community to which they were addressed was induced to do that which the majority had informally declared it would not do, and the people of New York, accepting this interpretation of the constitution as true, determined to favor its establishment between itself and the other states of the union. The Federalist had a similar efficacy wherever it was read. The men who wrote it were Americans rather than provincials. They were statesmen and foremost thinkers in a time which called for profound and earnest reflection on questions of immense consequence. Other papers were written by their peers in other journals, but this collection is pre-eminent among them all.

Accordingly it has seemed imperative to call particular attention to a production which is sometimes spoken of as a series of newspaper articles or as a partisan view of a question that has long since been settled. That these articles were not ephemeral is shown by their repeated reproduction to the present day in 20 editions. That they are something more than a Whig document is evidenced by the fact that they are the best interpreters of the intentions and purposes which the builders of the nation had when they framed the constitution of the United States. This instrument itself cannot be well understood without the contemporary commentary of The Federalist.

STIRRED BY WHEELER

Much Feeling Aroused by His Speech, Which May Figure In House Debate.

AN ACTIVE WEEK EXPECTED.

War Revenue Reduction Bill to Be Taken Up Today—Danish Treaty May Be Taken Up In Senate Today—Forecast of Congress.

Washington, Feb. 17.—The coming week promises to be one of unusual activity in the house of representatives. Beginning today the war revenue reduction bill will be taken up, with two days for debate, and a stringent special rule bringing the bill to a vote at 3 p. m. Tuesday, without intervening motion to recommend or amendments other than those of a verbal character proposed by the committee. At the outset there promises to be a spirited contest on the adoption of the special rule, as the minority will protest against the cutting off of amendments and the motion to recommend. There is little doubt, however, that the rule will be adopted. When the debate proper begins there will be hardly more than three hours on each side. This time will be given to the members of the ways and means committee, who in turn will apportion it among their colleagues. The passage of the bill is a foregone conclusion, as the minority members as well as the majority favor it, the only difference being as to the amount of reduction and the extent to which tariff changes should go. Aside from the tariff issue, it would be no surprise if the sensational speech of Representative Wheeler, of Kentucky, on Prince Henry's visit and other foreign matters figures in the discussion, as much feeling has been aroused by the speech.

Indian Bill to Be Taken Up.

The Indian appropriation bill will be taken up on Wednesday, with two other appropriation bills, the diplomatic and consular, and the postoffice in reserve. Chairman Sherman, of the Indian affairs committee, expects to occupy two or three days, so that the other appropriation bills probably will go over until the following week. In that case private claims will get some consideration the latter part of the week.

There are several important measures of general legislation now ready for consideration, including the anti-anarchy bill and the Pacific cable bill. The intention, however, is not to consider these general measures so long as any appropriation bills remain unacted on.

Besides the work on the floor of the house it is expected that the coming week may see some progress in the ways and means committee, on the subject of Cuban reciprocity, which was deferred until after the war revenue reduction measure had been passed.

Washington, Feb. 17.—The greater part of the day today will be devoted by the senate to an effort to ratify the treaty with Denmark for the cession of the Danish West Indies. This proceeding will be in executive session, and there is no certainty as to whether one day will be sufficient for the purpose or not. Thus far there has been no marked evidence of opposition to the treaty, but Senator Bacon has indicated a purpose of offering an amendment to the agreement and of discussing it to some extent. What further discussion may develop remains to be seen.

Action May Be Postponed.

If the consideration of the treaty is not concluded Monday its final disposition will probably be postponed.

WATCH DOGS

Ever on the Alert, Alive to Every Form of Oppression, Kept on Edge, Burdened Beyond Endurance, Nerves Give Out.

The machinery of a mill that grinds day and night has to shut down now and then for repairs. It is the same way with your nerves. Overwork, close application, our ways of living, bring about nerve waste that sets up symptoms of various kinds. It may be failing strength, weakness, languor, headache, sleeplessness, etc. Whatever it is nerve force is lacking, and the means of restoring rests with Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills. A great many people in East Liverpool vouch for this. Among them is Mr. James Peppin, of No. 302 Third street, East Liverpool, O., who says: "Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills I got at Larkins' drug store, corner Sixth and East Market streets, are a fine nerve tonic. As a result of hard work I was generally debilitated, nervous and could not sleep. I needed rebuilding and found in the nerve pills the medicine needed. They have the power to steady and strengthen the nerves, give restful sleep and general vigor to the system at large."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are sold at 50 cents a box at dealers, or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Company, Buffalo, N. Y. See that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., are on every package.

FIND WAITING MEN AND JESTER.

"Oho!" the blustering ogre roared. "What have we here?" And by his side Two waiting men bent o'er the board; A jester, too, his nothings cried. If Jack can see this trio bent On laughter, at his own expense, Then you look up the merriment And teach the rascals better sense.

TWO BOER DELEGATES

COMING TO UNITED STATES.

Paris, Feb. 17.—The Temps, in an authorized note, says that only Messrs. Wessels and Wolmarans, the Boer delegates in Europe, have sailed for the United States and that Mr. Fischer remains in Brussels. The note says that the journey of Wessels and Wolmarans has no diplomatic object; that it simply appeared necessary that they enter into direct relations with the pro-Boer committees in the United States.

LIBRARIAN HERE

MISS BAKER HAS ENTERED UPON HER WORK.

Improved System of Classification Adopted—Plans for Opening.

According to previous arrangement of the Carnegie library board, Miss Gertrude Baker, of Mt. Vernon, is in the city and has already taken charge of the work.

Miss Baker is thoroughly conversant with every detail of the work before her, and she has assumed her duties with a zest than cannot but bring success.

The lady informed a reporter that she had determined upon the adoption of the Dewey decimal system of classification, which is in vogue in all of the principal libraries, and which has been found most satisfactory by experienced and competent librarians everywhere.

The system places the works in ten classes, viz: General works, philosophy, religion, sociology, philology, natural science, useful arts, fine arts, literature, history.

The last two are the larger. Literature includes all works of fiction, and will occupy a large space, while history takes in travel and biography and will also be extensive.

The librarian's quarters have been fitted up in the building, and she can be found there today. It is Miss Baker's wish that all persons who have contributions to make will call as early as possible. All volumes of general interest, together with complete numbers of magazines are solicited, and will be thankfully received.

It is thankful that the institution will be opened to the public some time during the month of April. However, it is the intention to have every department completely fitted and ready for occupancy before the opening. A meeting of the board will be held tonight.

The Presbyterian church will hold an oyster supper at town hall, Calcutta, Wednesday evening. 40-h

PROTECTION OF WORDS.

A Plea For a Rest For Our Familiar Quotations.

In these days when everybody is writing and everybody seems to succeed would it not be well to start a society for the protection of words and phrases? Many of these are so brutally overworked by the amateur. The winged words, the words that burn, the thoughts that breathe, the telling phrases, do they not clamor loudly for a rest? That very sentence affords an illuminating example of what I mean. How apt, how vivid, how expressive it would be if all its epithets had not lost their vitality through overwork! To the sated reader the whole sentence is but the echo of an echo. It not merely means nothing, but it is robbed even of its sound and fury.

The greenhorn that complained of "Hamlet" that it was too full of quotations unconsciously expressed a great fact through the medium of a bull. In a wrongheaded way he pointed out that constant reiteration has reduced the grandest passages in the language to mere commonplaces. Give our familiar quotations a rest. Lay to sleep our household words. Let fortune for awhile cease to favor the brave. Let us feign that the poet is made. Let a man who would steal another's thunder be arrested for felony. Let us win no more golden opinions. Let the favored few withdraw to some select seclusion and the countless thousands to some dry eyed privacy.

Thus may nouns, adjectives and phrases, after a long rest, reawaken with the freshness of the morning upon them, their original meanings recreated, energetic, effective, brilliant, as on the day when they were first conceived and brought forth.—Era.

A GREAT MEETING

Columbus; office secretary, Dwight Ginter.

Dr. E. W. Hunt, president of Denison university, at Granville, was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Dr. D. B. Purinton.

Section conferences were held again Saturday afternoon for railroad men, conducted by C. H. Newton, of Toledo; for college men, by W. H. Strong, of Wooster; on physical work, by George Hardy, of Columbus, and on boys' work, by R. F. McCann, of Dayton.

Dr. W. O. Thompson delivered an excellent address on the theme, "The Possibilities and Needs of Ohio State Work." Another address of interest was given by James McConaughy, of Northfield, Mass. The gentleman spoke on D. L. Moody and his wonderful work. The last address of the afternoon was delivered by R. W. Burns, of West Carrollton, his theme being "Business Integrity and Religious Influence."

An address was given Saturday evening by Prof. Charles R. Henderson, of Chicago, on the theme, "The Place of the Young Men's Christian Association in the Social Movement of the Twentieth Century."

An extract from the report of the state executive committee of Ohio is as follows:

"Both East Liverpool and Xenia with a reorganized board, a new secretary and good management have doubled their membership, improved their equipment, cleared up a large part of their indebtedness and together have led a score of men into the church in the past year. The rooms of each association are the most popular and most frequented place in the towns."

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION

OCCURRED AT THE ROUND HOUSE IN WELLSVILLE.

A Fireman Accidentally Set Fire to a Barrel of Crude Oil And Was Badly Hurt.

Howard Snively, a fireman at the Wellsville round house, went to a barrel of crude oil Saturday night with a lighted lamp.

The oil exploded with terrific force. Snively was thrown 15 feet and turned three somersaults. He was badly injured and now lies at his home in a critical condition.

M. E. Church Services.

The Knights of Pythias attended the M. E. church in a body yesterday morning. Dr. Crawford preached a very fine sermon on "The Love of God." The church was crowded to overflowing last night and many persons went forward for prayers. The interest seems to be increasing.

Thought She Was a Calf.

When Mme. Schumann-Heink was thirteen, her father was transferred to Gratz, where a singing teacher, Marietta von Leclair, recognizing the young girl's talent, offered to give her singing lessons without compensation. For two years she studied nothing but solfeggios. Then she began learning songs. She had a very deep contralto without any high notes at that time. One day a caller, hearing her sing Schubert's "Der Tod und das Mädchen" in an adjoining room, said to her teacher, "I did not know that you taught young calves."

"She is not a young calf," replied Marietta von Leclair. "Some day she will be a great singer."—Gustav Kobbe in Woman's Home Companion.

A Curious Boat.

According to a Chinese legend, there lived in Canton 200 years before Christ an artist named Lim Kao Pong, who won an immortal reputation owing to the fact that he was able to fashion out of a bean pod a boat, complete with rudder, sails, mast and all other necessary appurtenances. Moreover, on the exterior of the boat were engraved various maxims by Confucius. For this masterpiece, it is said, the Emperor Tsi Fou paid him 1,000 taels.

LIBRARIAN HERE

MISS BAKER HAS ENTERED UPON HER WORK.

Improved System of Classification Adopted—Plans for Opening.

According to previous arrangement of the Carnegie library board, Miss Gertrude Baker, of Mt. Vernon, is in the city and has already taken charge of the work.

Miss Baker is thoroughly conversant with every detail of the work before her, and she has assumed her duties with a zest that cannot but bring success.

The lady informed a reporter that she had determined upon the adoption of the Dewey decimal system of classification, which is in vogue in all of the principal libraries, and which has been found most satisfactory by experienced and competent librarians everywhere.

The system places the works in ten classes, viz: General works, philosophy, religion, sociology, philology, natural science, useful arts, fine arts, literature, history.

The last two are the larger. Literature includes all works of fiction, and will occupy a large space, while history takes in travel and biography and will also be extensive.

The librarian's quarters have been fitted up in the building, and she can be found there today. It is Miss Baker's wish that all persons who have contributions to make will call as early as possible. All volumes of general interest, together with complete numbers of magazines are solicited, and will be thankfully received.

It is thankful that the institution will be opened to the public some time during the month of April. However, it is the intention to have every department completely fitted and ready for occupancy before the opening. A meeting of the board will be held tonight.

The Presbyterian church will hold an oyster supper at town hall, Calcutta, Wednesday evening. 40-b

PROTECTION OF WORDS.

A Plea For a Rest For Our Familiar Quotations.

In these days when everybody is writing and everybody seems to succeed would it not be well to start a society for the protection of words and phrases? Many of these are so brutally overworked by the amateur. The winged words, the words that burn, the thoughts that breathe, the telling phrases, do they not clamor loudly for a rest? That very sentence affords an illuminating example of what I mean. How apt, how vivid, how expressive it would be if all its epithets had not lost their vitality through overwork! To the sated reader the whole sentence is but the echo of an echo. It not merely means nothing, but it is robbed even of its sound and fury.

The greenhorn that complained of "Hamlet" that it was too full of quotations unconsciously expressed a great fact through the medium of a bull. In a wrongheaded way he pointed out that constant reiteration has reduced the grandest passages in the language to mere commonplace. Give our familiar quotations a rest. Lay to sleep our household words. Let fortune for awhile cease to favor the brave. Let us feign that the poet is made. Let a man who would steal another's thunder be arrested for felony. Let us win no more golden opinions. Let the favored few withdraw to some select seclusion and the countless thousands to some dry eyed privacy.

Thus may nouns, adjectives and phrases, after a long rest, reawaken with the freshness of the morning upon them, their original meanings recreated, energetic, effective, brilliant, as on the day when they were first conceived and brought forth.—Era.

A GREAT MEETING

Columbus; office secretary, Dwight Ginter.

Dr. E. W. Hunt, president of Denison university, at Granville, was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Dr. D. B. Purinton.

Section conferences were held again Saturday afternoon for railroad men, conducted by C. H. Newton, of Toledo; for college men, by W. H. Strong, of Wooster; on physical work, by George Hardy, of Columbus, and on boys' work, by R. F. McCann, of Dayton.

Dr. W. O. Thompson delivered an excellent address on the theme, "The Possibilities And Needs of Ohio State Work." Another address of interest was given by James McConaughy, of Northfield, Mass. The gentleman spoke on D. L. Moody and his wonderful work. The last address of the afternoon was delivered by R. W. Burns, of West Carrollton, his theme being "Business Integrity and Religious Influence."

An address was given Saturday evening by Prof. Charles R. Henderson, of Chicago, on the theme, "The Place of the Young Men's Christian Association in the Social Movement of the Twentieth Century."

An extract from the report of the state executive committee of Ohio is as follows:

"Both East Liverpool and Xenia with a reorganized board, a new secretary and good management have doubled their membership, improved their equipment, cleared up a large part of their indebtedness and together have led a score of men into the church in the past year. The rooms of each association are the most popular and most frequented place in the towns."

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION

OCCURRED AT THE ROUND HOUSE IN WELLSVILLE.

A Fireman Accidentally Set Fire to a Barrel of Crude Oil And Was Badly Hurt.

Howard Snively, a fireman at the Wellsville round house, went to a barrel of crude oil Saturday night with a lighted lamp.

The oil exploded with terrific force. Snively was thrown 15 feet and turned three somersaults. He was badly injured and now lies at his home in a critical condition.

M. E. Church Services.

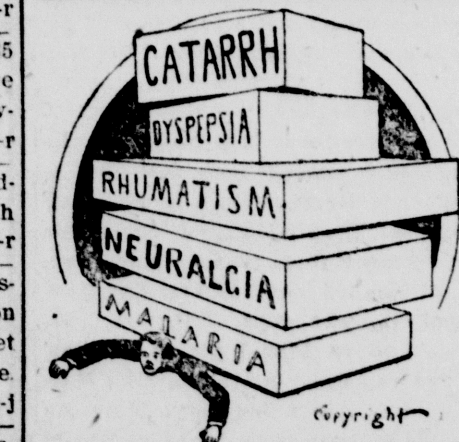

The Knights of Pythias attended the M. E. church in a body yesterday morning. Dr. Crawford preached a very fine sermon on "The Love of God." The church was crowded to overflowing last night and many persons went forward for prayers. The interest seems to be increasing.

Thought She Was a Calf.

When Mme. Schumann-Heink was thirteen, her father was transferred to Gratz, where a singing teacher, Marietta von Leclair, recognizing the young girl's talent, offered to give her singing lessons without compensation. For two years she studied nothing but solfeggios. Then she began learning songs. She had a very deep contralto without any high notes at that time. One day a caller, hearing her sing Schubert's "Der Tod und das Madchen" in an adjoining room, said to her teacher, "I did not know that you taught young calves."

A Curious Boat.

According to a Chinese legend, there lived in Canton 200 years before Christ an artist named Lim Kao Poung, who won an immortal reputation owing to the fact that he was able to fashion out of a bean pod a boat, complete with rudder, sails, mast and all other necessary appurtenances. Moreover, on the exterior of the boat were engraved various maxims by Confucius. For this masterpiece, it is said, the Emperor Tsi Fou paid him 1,000 taels.

THE PILED UP AGONY OF YEARS can be relieved immediately, and quickly cured, by something from our stock of DRUGS AND MEDICINES. It is only a question of getting the preparation which is best suited to the individual. In our line of Patent Medicines are certain cures for Catarrh, Dyspepsia, Neuralgia, etc. By taking the right one an end is put to pain and suffering.

Wants Separation From His Wife,

Other Matters Before the Courts for Adjudication.

Lisbon, February 17.—(Special)—Vance Drago, of Wellsville, has entered suit against Peter Tolensky, also of Wellsville, asking for $5,000 damages, alleging that his good name and reputation have been injured to that extent as the result of slander.

The words which Tolensky is alleged to have spoken against Drago are these: "He stole pork out of my cellar. He is a thief." Attorney W. F. Lones filed the petition.

Ernest Redmun, colored, residing in Wellsville, has applied for a divorce from Rachel J. Redmun and also asks the custody of their minor child, aged 4. The couple were married in June, 1887. The petition charges that the wife has been guilty repeatedly of infidelity with one Robert Redrick.

Dora Nestrick has filed suit for divorce, against Frank Nestrick. The petition relates that the marriage occurred in July, 1898, and that Frank Nestrick, the only child, was born in September, 1898. It is alleged that the husband has been wilfully absent for more than three years and the last year has failed to provide for the support of his wife and child. She asks for the custody of the child. The plaintiff lives at Hanoverton.

Charles Christy, of New Middleton, asks separation from his wife, Etta Christie. They were married in April, 1897, at Butler, Pa. The wife has been wilfully absent for more than three years and has disregarded all marital duties, according to the petition. The present whereabouts of the wife are unknown to the plaintiff.

Appeal has been made from Squire MacKenzie's court in Wellsville in the case of the Phoenix Oil company against the Buckeye Brick company. In the justice's court the plaintiff was given a judgment for $35, claimed to be due for merchandise.

NEW LEGISLATION

Bill to Prevent Blacks And Whites
From Marrying—Another Canal
Measure.

Columbus, February 17.—(Special)—A bill which will prevent miscegenation, or intermarriage of one race with that of another color, will shortly be introduced in the legislature by Representative Denune, of Franklin county. It is claimed that marriages of this kind are too prevalent. One per cent of the marriages in Ohio during the past year were between whites and blacks, most of the whites being women.

Representative Cain, of the Portage-Noble district, has a bill which he will offer soon which will provide for the abandonment of all the canals and canal basins, and for converting the state reservoirs, excepting the one near Celina, into public parks. Attorney General Sheets has ruled that the contracts for water rights on the canals are not binding upon the state and cites decisions of the United States supreme court and other supreme courts in support of his opinion. He is opposed to the proposition to submit the question of the abandonment of the canals to a popular vote.

A GREAT SUCCESS

Were the Presbyterian Church Services
Which Concluded
Yesterday.

The special services at the First Presbyterian church have closed. The evangelists who so acceptably carried on the work are gone, but the influence of their efforts abides. They left the city with the best wishes of a great number who were helped to a better life. A large number of members will be added to the church as the result of their labors.

The auditorium was filled with men at 2:30 p. m. yesterday. Mr. Biederwolf delivered his sermon, "The White Life." It was a powerful plea for men to live a pure and noble life. Prof. Maxwell sang with telling effect, "Shall I Meet My Sainted Mother?"

In the evening all available space in the church was occupied. The services were impressive. Among other things Mr. Biederwolf spoke in kindest words of the press of the city for giving so much space to the report of the services. At the close of the service the congregation remained to bid them godspeed as they go on in their work of helpfulness.

Judging by the number who decided to become Christians and the impression on the church and city the meetings were a great success.

GEORGE HECKATHORNE OUT OF

Second Term Completed—His Sensa-
tional Escape from Prison
Years Ago.

George Heckathorne, of East Liverpool, whose numerous escapades have brought him much notoriety, was one among 15 convicts who were released at the state penitentiary on Saturday. He completed a two-year sentence for burglary and larceny. He had served a similar term for the same offense before. Upon the completion of his first term he returned to East Liverpool and soon got into trouble. He fled from the city and was traced to Colorado, whence he was extradited and brought to Columbiana county for trial. Barely three months had elapsed from the time he had been given his liberty until he was returned to begin another term.

While serving his first term Heckathorne made a sensational escape from the prison. He was employed in the state shop at the time, where clothing is made, and he secured a suit of clothes which he donned and walked out with a crowd of visitors. He shaved his eyebrows and disguised himself so completely that the guard at the gate did not recognize him when he tendered him a pass which he had cleverly abstracted from the pocket of some unwary visitor. His liberty was short-lived, however. He hastened to the home of a female acquaintance in Columbus, but she betrayed him to the prison officials and he was captured the day following his escape.

An Elderly Stranger Excited Much
Curiosity By His Peculiar Actions.

An elderly man and a stranger in the city excited considerable curiosity on Sixth street yesterday by his peculiar actions. He was clothed much after the style of a western cowboy and wore long hair, which was gray in color.

During all of yesterday afternoon the stranger walked up and down Sixth street between the Diamond and Franklin street mumbering in undertones as if brooding over some misfortune. He made no effort to harm anyone, but his actions led those who watched him to believe he was demented. He disappeared last evening and has not since been seen.

INJUSTICE TO AMERICA

In the Practice of Undervaluing Shipments of Pottery From Abroad.
Where the Responsibility Rests
And the Remedy.

The American Economist, the leading tariff paper in the country, has the following interesting editorial on the pottery industry:

The protective tariff is responsible for the pottery industry in the United States. It was only a few years ago that we manufactured only low grades of pottery, but now, under protection, we have nearly one hundred factories located largely in New Jersey, Ohio, Maryland, Indiana, Pennsylvania, New York and Massachusetts, which produce splendid ware. It was in connection with this industry that our late president made his first reputation as a tariff exponent. The benefits of protection are well illustrated by this industry, and the continuance of protection is essential if we expect to produce our own wares in this line. In the manufacture of pottery practically no machinery is used. Your cups, saucers and plates are purely the product of manual labor, and it is a satisfaction to know that our American pottery workers receive from twice to four times the wages paid in European potteries.

Under the Wilson tariff the duty on foreign pottery or chinaware was 35 per cent ad valorem. Under the Dingley tariff the rate is 60 per cent. We are in receipt of reliable information to the effect that the gross undervaluations in this line exist, especially from merchandise coming from Limoges, France. These undervaluations apply to other countries of the continent largely, but only to a limited extent to the merchandise coming from England. It is said by responsible manufacturers that the Dingley rate of 60 per cent is no more than equal under present administrative conditions to the Wilson rate of 35 per cent. It is a well known fact that for customs purposes Limoges is a "closed market"—that is American importers cannot go into that market and purchase goods in the ordinary wholesale quantities as described in the tariff law. The manufacturers of Limoges ship their goods to their own agents or representatives in New York and other cities, except, per-

A GREAT MEETING OF Y. M. C. A. MEN

MANY CONVERTS MADE

And Inspiration Gathered for Future
Useful Work—Secretary Wright
Addressed a Large Gathering.
New Officers Chosen.

Piqua, Feb. 17.—(Special)—The second biennial state convention of the Y. M. C. A. closed last evening with a big farewell meeting in the Presbyterian church. During the day the various pulpits in the city were occupied by convention delegates, and leaders of the Young People's societies were also furnished.

The men's mass meeting in the afternoon was addressed by Dr. E. W. Hunt, of Denison university, and the mass meeting of boys and young men was presided over by H. E. Dodge, of Warren, Pa., with M. C. Wright, of East Liverpool, as the speaker. At the meeting 88 boys and young men declared it to be their intention to forsake sin.

The entire convention was enthusiastic and the papers thoughtful and helpful.

The theme of "The Religious Life of Men" was discussed from various standpoints and a decided step in advance noted. One very favorable indication was the proposition of the Glob Wernicke people of Cincinnati to equip a complete Y. M. C. A., and the prediction is made that industrial concerns will in the next 10 years outstrip the railroads in furnishing quarters and facilities for this work.

The delegates from East Liverpool Secretary M. C. Wright and Physical Director P. J. Stephens, left on the night train for home.

The state convention of the Y. M. C. A. did a great amount of work at Saturday's session. An interesting paper on bible study within the association was read by Dr. L. L. Doggett, of Springfield, Mass. Another paper on "Bible Study Outside of the Association," was given by S. H. E. Dodge, of Warren, Pa., it being devoted to home and shop study. An address on the religious opportunity in the Orient was made by C. C. Michener, of New York.

At the business session a resolution was passed whereby the associations of the state will send a man to the foreign field. East Liverpool extended an invitation to hold the next biennial session in that city, and it was left in the hands of the state committee to decide.

The report of the committee on state committee was given by Foster Copeland. It provided for the appointment of a secretary for religious work and the increase of the sum for this work from $8,500 to $10,000, and for the extension of the Y. M. C. A. work to new towns.

C. H. Rundle, of Piqua, was appointed a member of the state committee. The other officers are: Chairman, Thomas Elder, Dayton; vice chairman, Dr. W. O. Thompson, Columbus; recording secretary, Border Bowman, Springfield; treasurer, C. J. Dockstader, Cleveland; state secretary, H. A. Wilbur, Columbus; assistant state secretary, G. B. Landis, Findlay; college secretary, Arthur Rugh.

Little Mildred Pope, the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James V. Pope, of Pennsylvania avenue, is in a critical condition.

The child was badly burned last week by the upsetting of some alcohol on a gas stove, and it is thought the shock to her nervous system will prove fatal.

She was ill at the time and has been growing steadily worse since, and has had repeated sinking spells, caused by the shock.

Her condition is pronounced critical and there is slight hope for her recovery.

At Columbus for the New Pottery
Which the Bells Will Build.

Columbus, February 17.—(Special)—The Bell Pottery company, of Findlay, has closed the deal for the Frey tract of land in this city on which the concern will erect a large pottery. There are 168 acres in the tract and the price paid was $65,000 cash.

The tract was bought in the name of Wm. F. Bell, the president of the company, and he stated that the construction of the plant would be begun early in the spring. The company expects to be turning out ware before next fall. It is proposed to make the factory one of the finest in the country.

Evidence is at hand that the object of the company in acquiring such a large tract of land is to divide the ground into lots and sell them.

Before the Mayor—Other Doings in Police Court.

With six different charges against him of furnishing liquor to minors, James Lowe, the West End park policeman, is a prisoner in the city jail. He will be taken to Lisbon tomorrow to appear before the probate court.

Officer Dawson arrested Lowe Saturday night. The affidavit was filed by Walter Moore, of the West End, who is employed as gardener by J. M. Aten. It is alleged that Lowe furnished whisky to Oscar Moore, the 14-year-old son of Walter Moore, and to Lewis Moore, aged 16, at various times.

The accused was arraigned before Mayor Davidson this morning and entered pleas of not guilty to all of the charges. He did not offer to deny that he had furnished liquor to the boys, but pleaded not guilty because he claimed the dates given in the affidavits were wrong.

Fixing bond at $50 in each case the mayor bound Lowe over to the probate court. He was unable to furnish the required bond and was taken back to jail. The necessary papers were made out today and he will be taken to Lisbon tomorrow.

It is said by the officers who were at the city hall yesterday that Lowe is as much of a "masher" as Ed Biddle. Scores of girls called at the jail to console him and several shed scalding tears on seeing him behind the bars. His arrest was a great surprise.

Frank Spivey was charged with drunkenness, having been arrested by Patrolman Woods. Only a few weeks ago Spivey was sent to the county infirmary, but he became dissatisfied and ran away. He told the mayor he had been roughly handled by Woods when arrested, but admitted he was drunk. He had no money and was allowed to go, but will go to the workhouse if again arrested.

John Muger was arrested last night by Officer Auerhelde and charged with intoxication. He gave security for his appearance this evening.

Lisbon, February 17.—(Special)—Commissioners French and Bowman were in Cleveland Saturday and had a conference with the workhouse authorities there regarding a contract with that institution for the next year. The Cleveland authorities offered a contract providing for the care of prisoners at 40 cents per day, which is the same as at Canton now. Cleveland authorities give clothing, medicine, nursing and physicians' care for those sick, the county to pay for these extras. Fearing the amount of the extra expense, the commissioners decided that the contract with Canton is a better one.

EAST END

CHURCHES ARE CROWDING

Many New Members Added to East End Churches As Result of Revival.

The services in all the East End churches yesterday were largely attended. Although one church is without a regular pastor, a large congregation was present there.

The special services at the Second Presbyterian church were interesting, the auditorium being filled at both services. During the day 10 persons united with the church on profession of faith. The singing of the Laughlin brothers at both services was pleasing, and in the evening the "Holy City" was beautifully rendered by A. A. Laughlin. The service this evening will be in charge of Rev. S. L. Boston and the singing during the week will be in charge of Prof. A. A. Laughlin.

So crowded was the Erie street M. E. church last evening that a number of persons were compelled to sit on the rostrum. Two timely sermons were preached during the day by Rev. George W. Orcutt and at the morning service five persons united with the church, and last evening there were six persons at the altar. These meetings will continue through the week.

The services at the Second U. P. church yesterday were well attended, the service last evening being in charge of Rev. Mr. Black, of New Wilmington, Pa. The arrangement now made is that Rev. Mr. Black will occupy the pulpit at both services at this church next Sunday.

The car was opened this morning by railroad employes, and the floor was found covered with cakes and crackers. Yesterday afternoon a crowd of boys were seen in the car and word was sent to the East End fire station. When the officers arrived there was no one in the car or about the platform.

DEMOCRATIC IDEAS

Embodied in Tax Bills For Extension of the Nichols Law.

Columbus, Feb. 17.—(Special)—Two bills with identical provisions were introduced in the senate and house on Friday by Senator Decker, of Paulding, and Representative Carle, of Seneca. They contain the Democratic ideas on taxation, and extend the provisions of the Nichols law, which now only applies to telephone, telegraph, express and sleeping car companies, to electric light, natural gas, gas, pipe line, water works, street railways, messenger companies, interurban and steam railway companies.

UNIVERSITY SUPPORT

Legislators Think the Taxes Are Mostly For Franklin County's Benefit.

Columbus, Feb. 17.—(Special)—A circular has been prepared showing the taxes by counties for the Ohio State University, at Columbus, proposed to be raised by a bill, at the rate of 2-10 of a mill on the grand duplicate; also the number of students in attendance. Franklin county, under the bill, is to contribute $17,448.74 in taxes to the institution. The county has the largest number of students—403. Columbiana county has but 18 students and is to be called upon to pay $5,650.11.

The claim is put forth that Franklin county is the chief beneficiary under the bill. The Columbiana county members look askance at the measure.

Wintering in Colorado And Utah.

The climate of Colorado and Utah has long been world famous, but it is only within recent years that attention has been given to the delightful winter climate of these states. Today physicians all over the United States send their patients to Colorado and Utah to escape the rigors of eastern winters and to benefit by her invigorating atmosphere and health-giving sunshine.

It is not necessary to add an elaborate argument—the conclusion is self-evident and inevitable. The winter climate of Colorado and Utah on the whole presents advantages for the invalid and the pleasure-seeker that cannot fail to command attention.

An erroneous impression prevails that because the Rocky mountains have a high elevation the mercury in the thermometer drops down below zero in the winter season and stops there, and that the snow mounts up with the altitude. The fact is that the average precipitation of moisture in the lowlands of the mountain region during the entire year is only 14.15 inches. With such average precipitation there is practically no danger of snow blockades on the railroads, save at a few points exposed to drifts and these points have been amply protected. This is especially true of the lines of the Denver & Rio Grande and the Rio Grande Western between Denver and Ogden at all seasons of the year. Facts speak for themselves, and the fact is that travel over "The Scenic Line of the World" has gone on with less interruption from snow blockades during the last ten winters than it has upon the majority of railroads in other localities which are popularly supposed to be more free from such delays than the mountain systems. STORM OF OPPOSITION

Meets Request For Appropriation For Enlargement of Ohio State University.

OTHER COLLEGES OPPOSED

Bill Introduced in Legislature to Prevent the Overcrowding of Street Cars—Change in Attitude of Anti-Saloon People.

Columbus, O., Feb. 17.—(Special)—Ohio is to have official representation at the coming St. Louis exposition, though not perhaps in so sumptuous a way as some might like or as was at first expected. The original plan which found expression in a bill introduced in the senate by Mr. Archer called for an appropriation of $200,000 and the creation of an administrative board of fifteen members, one of whom was to serve as commissioner and be permanently stationed at St. Louis at a salary to be determined by the board. No special provision was made for the women of the state. This measure was referred to the finance committee and the pruning knife put at work. It will now come back to the senate in a much modified and less expensive form. The board of commissioners is to be reduced from fifteen to ten, and to take the place of the five a woman's board of that number is created. The members of both these boards are to be given five dollars a day each while actually engaged in the work of the exposition, or, rather, the Ohio end of it, and, in addition, the men will be allowed their traveling expenses and subsistence while away from home. The women will be treated in no such gracious way, probably upon the theory that home presents the most attractive place for them to stay, and there will be no reason why they should leave. The board of administration is further instructed to elect a resident commissioner, who is to remain at St. Louis a goodly portion of the time and who is to receive an annual salary of not to exceed $2,500 a year. In all of this the reduction of expenses was but slight. It was in the grand appropriation that the committee made wholesale changes. The contemplated appropriation of $200,000 was cut squarely in two and placed at $100,000, and at that figure it will pass, if at all. There is some disposition to criticize the entire transaction and argue that Ohio can get along without an official representation. This opposition, if unable to defeat the bill in the legislature, may attack its constitutionality, and Representative Duvall now has a resolution drawn up to that effect.

The Ohio State university, in asking for an appropriation to carry on the work of that institution, in an enlarged and more expansive way, has raised a storm of opposition which finds its center in the other universities and colleges of the state. This increase is asked for under the claim that the money is needed to erect new and more commodious buildings, improve some already up and increase the character and scope of the curriculum. In short, to make the university one which will successfully undergo a comparison with the great universities of other states. In this stand it has the accord of many of the leading educators of the state and members of the legislature who, supported by a natural state pride, wish to see Ohio in the vanguard of educational advance. The opposition to the increase, as shown by the other universities, has its inception in the fear that this central Columbus school is to be built up at their expense, and that as it grows and reaches out and becomes more powerful, they will decrease in strength and usefulness, with gradually diminishing appropriations, until none are left them at all. And in this they are not without reason. In fact, the matter resolves itself into the proposition of whether it is better to have one great central university, sustained and supported by the state, or several under state care, with the appropriation divided among them.

Before the adjournment of the general assembly some action will be taken to abolish what is known as "stockholder's double liability," by which the owners of stock in corporations can be held for liability to double the amount of their holdings. The startling statement is made that because of this law $1,050,000 of capital left Ohio last year to find a home in other states, and that a continuance of the law will ultimately result in practically driving all corporations from the state. The taxation committee, to which the statement was made, was dumfounded at the array of figures and admitted that something must be done for the protection of Ohio industries. As the opening move in such a direction, Mr. Fraser of Lucas will endeavor to secure the passage of a bill providing that a creditor must bring action for a debt against a corporation within two years from the time it is due or forfeit his right to action. A further stipulation is that where stock is transferred, the original stockholder cannot be held for a debt of the corporation for more than two years after the transfer. This bill, if passed, will be followed by others of a more stringent and specific character.

Representative Jones of Toledo will present, later in the session, a measure calculated to warm the hearts of those who, by force of circumstances, are compelled to take crowded street cars in the early evenings when the rush from shop and factory and store is heaviest and the facilities for transportation seemingly the least. His bill will compel street car companies to hang a sign on the outside of the car, when every seat has been taken, reading, "Car is full." This undoubtedly would not prevent some overly-ambitious people from climbing on and standing up, but Mr. Jones proposes to protect such against themselves. To do that, he will declare it a misdemeanor both for a person to get on a car or for the conductor to let him on, and for such an offense both can be taken before a magistrate and fined anywhere from $5 to $50.

Several labor bills have either been introduced during the past few days or are ready to go in. The most important of these relates to convict contract labor and provides for its abolishment in the Ohio penitentiary, the Mansfield reformatory and all workhouses in the state after Sept. 1, 1932. It further creates a commission of three members, to be appointed by the governor, which shall exercise jurisdiction over the labor in all the penal institutions in the state. The plan is to have the inmates of all these institutions manufacture goods for use in state institutions only, and such goods would pass through the hands of this commission for distribution. Another bill introduced by the same representative, Mr. Pollock of Stark, raises the age for child employment and prohibits the hiring of boys or girls, during the school year, who are not fifteen years of age or more. The third bill of importance, which is yet to come, declares that all state printing must be done in union shops and bear the union label. It was the first idea to require only the stamp of the International Typographical union, but this was objected to so strenuously by the Allied Printing Trades council, on the ground that while it would protect the typesetters, it made no provision for the others who must take part in the work, that the change to include all who have a hand in the printing and require the label of both the typographical union and the Allied Printing Trades council was agreed to, and under that form it will be presented for consideration.

"Arbor day" is to be supplanted by "Forest and Bird day," in which Ohio will stand unique. Mr. Hays of Cincinnati is the originator of the idea. The governor is to set apart one day in March of each year to be used by the pupils in all public schools and state institutions for the study of forestry and the protection and care of birds. "A thing of which the people are now woefully ignorant," he says. The planting of trees is not to be stopped, but to that simply perfunctory task is to be added a technical knowledge of what the trees are and the purpose for which they are put down, as well as some idea of the different birds which live in Ohio, their usefulness and why they should be protected and allowed to thrive and grow. "Arbor day" is simply to give way to a day of wider significance and deeper meaning.

The expected change in the attitude of the anti-saloon people has come, and, as a result, the original bill, which was presented some time ago, has been so amended as to eliminate in its entirety the local option feature, leaving only the feature of voting on the saloon question by municipalities. Towns and cities may cause the removal of saloons when a majority of the voters so decide at an election. In place of the ward local option feature, a new bill will be introduced providing that when fifty-one per cent or more of the qualified voters of a ward petition the council asking for the removal of saloons, the council is to hold a special meeting within five days, and if upon examination the petition is found to be regular, the mayor shall order the saloons within the ward closed and see that the order is enforced. Somewhat stringent penalties are attached for failure to comply. Such an action, when once put in operation, is to remain effective for two years, but at the end of that time a new petition may be circulated by the liquor dealers, and if they are able to obtain the consent of more than a majority of the voters, the saloons may be re-established. It is the hope of the anti-saloon supporters to secure the passage of both these bills.

EUROPE: WHAT NEXT?

Schwab Found Feeling of Uncertainty and Curiosity as to Steel Combine.

UTMOST FRIENDSHIP FOR U. S.

President of Great Corporation Returned, Himself More Than Ever Impressed With Combine's Scope and Possibilities.

New York, Feb. 17.—After an absence of nearly two months in Europe Mr. Charles M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel corporation, arrived yesterday morning on the steamship St. Paul. He comes in time to attend the annual meeting of the stockholders of the corporation, which is to be held today in Jersey City.

Schwab Himself More Impressed.

Mr. Schwab visited England, France, Germany and Austria, coming everywhere in the closest touch with the leaders of finance and manufacture. He returns, as he himself expressed it to the Associated Press last night, more than ever impressed with the scope and possibilities of the great corporation of which he is the head, and more than ever enthusiastic over the position of the United States in its relationship with the trade and commerce of the world. Mr. Schwab declined to discuss the personal details of his trip. He said he preferred to speak as the president of the United States Steel corporation. "I went away for a vacation," he said, "and while I had a delightful trip I also did a great deal of work. I found a feeling of the utmost friendship for our country existing everywhere in Europe. I found also intense interest in the question of the industrial combination, business men on every hand wishing to know more about them and more about our methods."

Surprised at Tremendous Interest.

"I have been privileged to meet the greatest men in the European world of finance and manufacture and the great master minds of economic thought. I was surprised and delighted to find such tremendous interest in our great undertaking and with the cordial reception given everywhere to the president of the steel corporation."

"I said in a speech delivered in Chicago that any combination of business enterprises organized for other purpose than the reduction of cost and the increase of output is placed upon a false basis, and I return from my visit to Europe feeling more than ever impressed with the truth of that proposition. I come back with my ideas broadened and my enthusiasm unbounded. Heretofore I have looked upon our great combination of the steel industry of this country as perhaps nothing more than an ordinary business venture of great magnitude, but after hearing the views of the business men of the old world I find that I have, if anything, underrated our undertaking."

Ready to Demonstrate Advantages.

"We are now more than ever ready to demonstrate that the greater the scope of the combination the greater the possibilities for economy, and consequently the greater the possibilities for the reduction of cost. With these objects in view we must have our great plants equipped and manned to perfection, and no care or proper expense must be spared to keep those plants modern and at the highest point that ingenuity, skill and enterprise can reach."

"While there exists in Europe the greatest feeling of friendship and admiration for America and Americans, I found also a degree of curiosity and uncertainty as to what we are going to do next. But, as I told them, they have their own protection at home in their laws and what we are after is trade in the great common field such as China and the Orient generally. This we want and this we are going to get. In order that we may do so, however, we look to congress to make provision for the protection of our shipping. We will look after the manufacturing."

No Enmity Among Great Men.

"Speaking as the president of the United States Steel corporation, I wish to impress upon our people here the fact that throughout England and Europe there exists no feeling of enmity among the great men; and my visit abroad this year was notable in the change I found when I, who had been there so often before as an individual, presented myself as the president of the United States Steel corporation, which, as the greatest of American consolidations, was the center of curiosity among inquiring men of all nations, who sought on every hand to learn more of our methods and our plans."

Mr. Schwab said he preferred not to anticipate the proceedings at the meeting of the United States Steel corporation today.

The proposal to send workhouse prisoners from this city to Cleveland instead of Canton is one which council should consider closely and act upon promptly. If it is possible to save five cents a day on the cost of keeping each prisoner the saving will amount to a considerable sum in the course of a year. The city should always save wherever it can, and there is an especially strong reason for economy in expenditures just at present. The cost of transporting prisoners to Cleveland will be little more than to Canton, and the direct railroad journey will take less time than the change of cars now necessary. So far in the discussion that has taken place on the subject, no good reason has been presented why the proposed change should not be made.

The decision of the Pennsylvania company to erect a railway station in the East End which shall furnish adequate accommodations for the freight and passenger business of that busy and growing section of the city is none the less welcome though tardy. The councilmen who have labored so zealously to bring about the consummation of the popular wish are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts. The evident disposition of the railroad officials to pay more attention to the interests of this city is one that will be hailed with much satisfaction.

Massachusetts in 1888 had 533 miles of street railways. Today she has 2,177 miles, having added 263 last year. The last horse car disappeared in 1901, and the electric railway mileage exceeds that of the steam railways. Manifestly a great social and industrial revolution is going on under the stimulus of the railroad system that is bringing towns and country together and conferring countless direct and indirect benefits upon the people. Labor has participated in the industrial movement and is one of its most conspicuous beneficiaries.

The efforts of local pastors and visiting clergymen in the evangelistic field appear to be bearing excellent fruit. East Liverpool ministers are among the busiest men in this busy city, and the best of it is that they make their work count.

A California woman has sued for $250,000 damages for the alleged abduction of her husband. The fact that she had not had him long perhaps accounts for the high price at which she valued him.

In one church choir in Akron, 29 women singers are reported to have found husbands in the past four years. The choir director must be kept busy all the time listening to applications for membership.

Prince Henry is to speak English exclusively while on tour in this country. This is obviously the proper thing, and it will conduce not a little to popular interest in his visit.

Youngstown has raised $3,000 for the McKinley monument, and is not yet through. The chance is still open for East Liverpool to do as well.

MRS. HUSS' LUNCHEON

An Elaborate Affair in Pittsburg in Honor of East Liverpool Ladies.

The luncheon given by Mrs. Simon R. Huss, formerly Miss Florence Cartwright, of this city, at her home in Pittsburg Saturday afternoon, was a very interesting and pretty affair. It was in honor of the Flabbergaster club of this city. The house was handsomely decorated. There were eight courses and covers were laid for 14. The place of each guest in the dining room was designated by a card bearing her name, the hostess' monogram and a pretty "Gibson girl" picture. The luncheon was a most elaborate affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Huss leave next week for Washington, D. C., where Mr. Huss will look after business matters.

AT THE THEATER

At the opera house tonight Con T. Murphy's latest success "The Game Keeper," will be presented. Messrs. Rowland and Clifford, proprietors of this attraction are featuring Smith O'Brien, a very clever singing and dancing comedian, who will be remembered as the star of "The Ivy Leaf" and "The Fairies Well." "The Game Keeper" differs materially from anything in this line that has ever been produced by this author. While it abounds with pathos, it possesses a vein of comedy never attempted into an Irish comedy drama, thereby furnishing ample opportunity and scope for Mr. O'Brien to introduce his original songs, that he is so famous for.

Manager Norris received a telegram this morning from the Brixton Burglary company, stating that four of their members were sick, making it necessary for them to cancel the engagement for this city tomorrow evening.

The Schiller Dramatic company concluded a successful week at the Grand Saturday night, presenting "Daughters of the Poor."

haps, upon what are known as "import orders," where the merchandise is shipped direct to the purchaser. From evidence which we have seen we have no doubt that merchandise of this description is invoiced at actually less than the cost of production, and this fact is known to the customs officers at New York.

Who is to blame, and how can this condition be rectified?

Some of the largest importers at New York are closely identified with the manufacturers in Europe, and naturally they wish to place their goods upon this market at the lowest possible price. It is evident that in these efforts they have the co-operation of customs officers, and we believe that the trouble begins with the supervising special agent of the treasury department at Washington and the special agent at Paris, for the investigations and reports of these officers have not only been misleading but contrary to reports made by officers of the state department. We believe also that the examiners in the appraiser's office at New York are too much given to friendly consideration of the invoice values of certain importers, and that at least one member of the United States board of general appraisers has been so willing to receive importers' evidence that it has been practically impossible to maintain advances.

Certain it is that the pottery manufacturers are suffering from great undervaluations under this Republican administration, and we sincerely hope that Secretary Shaw will adopt such methods as will give to this industry the protection accorded by the Dingley tariff.

The Sanitary Pressers' local No. 45 at Trenton will hold the first meeting at the new quarters of the Brotherhood of Operative Pottery in the Ribsam building Tuesday evening, when several questions for presentation at the national convention, which meets in May, will be discussed. These questions refer to reforms in the trade, as there are a number of defects now creeping in which need the approval of the national body to remedy. Trenton contains more sanitary workers than any town in the United States, and the questions to be brought before Tuesday night's meeting will have considerable bearing upon the pottery trade. The other locals which have complaints to make at the convention will discuss them at the meetings during the next few weeks. In March the locals will elect their delegates and regulate the pay they are to receive while the convention is in progress.

During the past week very few buyers have been in the city, and hence but few large orders have been secured by the manufacturers. However, there is an encouraging outlook for a good spring trade, and reports from different parts of the country are to the effect that the potteries may soon expect to be rushed. While many orders have been placed with the local firms this year, it is a noticeable fact that a better grade of ware is being purchased than during last season. At some of the plants the decorators have been compelled to work night and day to get out rush orders, and only last week one firm received an order for the most costly decorated toilet set made. It is claimed that not a single buyer who came here during the past season left without placing an order.

The new quarters of the Brotherhood of Operative Pottery in the Ribsam building at Trenton, which have been undergoing renovation during the past three weeks, are now ready for occupancy. The room has been enlarged and now contains a floor space of 50 feet, which makes it the best adapted quarters of any labor organization in the state. In the future all the Trenton locals, which have been meeting in different parts of the city, will hold their sessions there. The convention of the Brotherhood in May will be held in the rooms, which are capable of accommodating the 200 delegates who are expected to be present. The eastern offices of the national executive board, including Vice President Frank H. Hutchins, will be there.

Thus far no work has been done on the new pottery to be built at Salineville by William H. Deldrick and others of this city. In an interview Mr. Deldrick said: "I will begin work as soon as the frost leaves the ground, as I don't wish to begin the foundation and have it fall down. I am anxious to begin work and have made arrangements with the railroad company to construct a switch to the plant in order to facilitate the handling of building material. We will manufacture vitrified china exclusively and will have a large stock in the warehouse by the first of next year. The plant when running full will employ from 175 to 200 persons."

The old firm formerly operating the

Evansville pottery has sold its interest to the firm that will also have the Peoria shop and expect to build a shop at Indianapolis. Mr. A. M. Weil, of Evansville, who consummated the deal, has been elected president of the company, and Mr. W. H. Flentke, well known in this city, will be general superintendent of the different plants. There will also be some changes in the Evansville shop, as the intentions are to enlarge the factory, but just how is not known at present.

An Evansville correspondent has some good advice, which every local would do well to follow. He says: Be cautious in the selection of your delegates. Do not choose a man simply because he is a good friend of yours. Elect a man that you know will represent you to the best of his ability, and one that is not afraid to get up and express his views on any question that may come up for discussion, as this will be a convention that will have some very important business to deal with.

E. J. Owens, who has retired from the East Liverpool Pottery company, states that he has some plans in view, but has not decided what he will do beyond the fact that he will go into the pottery business again. He will probably either erect a new plant or secure one already built.

It has been announced that Joseph Chetwynd, late of the East Liverpool Pottery company, will open a modeling shop in this city. The location has not been definitely decided upon.

The biscuit kilnmen did not work on Saturday afternoon at the Klondike on account of all the kilns being full. This was caused by a shortage of gas early in the week.

F. F. Debolt, representing the French China company, left this morning for an extended trip through the east. He will be gone several weeks.

J. B. Hess, of Dubois, Pa., was in the city last week, and placed an order for a car load of ware with the East Liverpool Pottery company.

The social and entertainment to be given by local union No. 24, at Wellsville, tomorrow evening promises to be an enjoyable affair.

The Bloch Queensware company, of Fort Smith, is about to establish a wholesale house with $100,000 capital at Oklahoma.

Twenty-five unions have endorsed the project of building a labor lyceum in Akron.

The glost kilnhands have resumed work at the Wallace & Chetwynd.

GERMAN ARMY OFFICERS.

The Abject Deference Shown Them by Civilians is Amazing.

The respect and deference shown to the German army officer on duty and off duty by his countrymen are wonderful to see, according to a London writer. "Civilians, even compatriots of distinction, on entering the dining room bow to him with formal humility. He acknowledges the obeisances only with a rigid glare of haughty indifference, though he is politely conscious of the coming and going of ladies. The German civilian does not appear to be surprised at or to resent being contemptuously ignored by him, but recognizes him and looks up to him as a superior member of a superior race and continues to make his obeisances, however loftily they are ignored.

"But, while the officer is unable to see the civilian at whom he is looking point blank, he never misses observing the entrance and acknowledging the salute of another of his own race. He rises from his seat and stands stiff and erect while the newcomer advances and exchanges formal bows and greetings, and as he recovers the erect position from the bow he brings his heels together with a sharp parade click and waits until his superior has taken a seat before he resumes his own."

There were tremendous ceremonies in eating and drinking, too, especially in drinking. "Each table group lifted their glasses invariably together, as if at the word of command, taking their time apparently from the senior present. Having seized their glasses together and raised them together and simultaneously drunk, they would simultaneously finish and then, holding their glasses before them, would with great ceremony bow to one another before replacing them on the table. It did not matter whether they were drinking beer or claret or the German champagne, which seems to be the especially smart thing to take, there was the same ceremony. When a senior officer went out of the room, all the juniors present rose to stiff attention and bowed as he passed. When a junior rose, he made the round of the table on his way to the door and bowed separately, with a spur jingling heel click every time to every other officer."

No Trotting Consolidation. W. P. Iams, president of the American Trotting association, denies the statement that there will be a consolidation of the American and National Trotting associations. He says the only foundation for such a report is that committees from the two associations met Jan. 7 at New York to discuss jointly amendments to rules, so that they may be as nearly uniform as possible. The American association will hold its congress in May and the National in June.

FOGO VICTORIOUS
BY A BIG MARGIN

Easily Won Against Other Mayoralty Candidates at Saturday's Election.

A HEAVY VOTE WAS POLLED

Boyd Ran Away Head of McGregor in the Solicitorship Race—Herbert for Street Commissioner—Result of the Vote By Wards.

The Republican primary election, held in this city Saturday afternoon called out the largest number of voters in years for a similar election. Out of a possible 1,200 votes there were 1,128 cast, demonstrating that the candidates waged an untiring campaign.

Wallace L. Fogo for the second time received the nomination for mayor, carrying every ward, with the exception of the one in which he lives, by a good majority. Charles R. Boyd easily landed the nomination for solicitor, receiving a majority of 449 votes. This was his third time as a candidate for the office. H. A. Herbert, the winning candidate for street commissioner, defeated his opponent by 220 votes.

The remaining successful candidates had a hard struggle for victory, their majorities being small. The name of each candidate, with the number of votes received in each ward, follows:

A POWERFUL TELEPHONE CO.

Part of Bond Issue Intended to Build Up the Federal Concern.

Cleveland, Feb. 17.—The $1,000,000 cash bond issue, a part of the $6,500,000 issue incident to the collateral trust plan for financing the properties of the Federal Telephone company, will furnish the money to make the company one of the most powerful independent telephone concerns in the country. While money will be used all over the state, a good share of it will be used in Cleveland and Columbus.

Three thousand additional telephones will, it is said, be placed in the local plant of the Federal Telephone company, and 1,000 will be added to the Columbus exchange.

It can now be said as an assured fact that the uncompleted plant at Detroit will be sold. Whether the move to purchase, headed by Mayor Maybury, of Detroit, will succeed or not is just now an open question.

At the same time it is said that Mayor Maybury is basing his offer on the municipal ownership idea. To work up a municipal ownership scheme will, it is feared, take an indefinite period, and the bankers' committee will probably not feel inclined to await the outcome of what is felt to be a somewhat doubtful proposition. On the other hand, other parties are figuring on the purchase of the plant. It is believed the bankers' committee will sell for a figure something like $400,000, with perhaps interest on the money added.

In regard to the traction situation it was authoritatively announced that a new bid for control of the Big Consolidated would be submitted by the Elkins-Widener people perhaps within a week. At a meeting to be held in Philadelphia today the matter will be taken up and finally settled upon. The expectation is that the syndicate will stick to the effort to lease the property.

TERRORS OF WAR FELT.

Batangas Province Practically Subjugated by Bell's Forces.

Manila, Feb. 17.—General J. Franklin Bell has practically cleaned up the insurrection in Batangas province, the troops under his command having made a clean sweep of the district. It is not believed that all the insurgent arms have been captured or surrendered, but that a number of them have been taken by the insurgents to other provinces or safely hidden. The increase of robber bands in the provinces of Tayabas and Cavite show the effects of the drastic measures adopted at Batangas and Laguna provinces.

General Bell says the people of these latter provinces never realized the terrors of war until they personally experienced its hardships, owing to the closing of the ports and the concentration of the natives in the towns. General Bell believes that the insurgent leader Malver is becoming exceedingly unpopular with the Filipinos and that when the natives cease to fear his vengeance, many will be found willing to betray him.

What has been said of Batangas province applies almost equally to Laguna.

Cousin of President Dead.

New York, Feb. 17.—Cornelius Roosevelt, the only surviving son of the late S. Weir Roosevelt and a cousin to President Roosevelt, is dead of heart disease in this city. Mr. Roosevelt was born in this city 54 years ago and was educated at the Troy polytechnic school. Shortly after completing his course there he went abroad and had lived since that time chiefly in Paris.

PICKINGS FROM FICTION.

It isn't hard to judge human nature—if you let the other man do the talking.—"The Great White Way."

When we undertake to compromise with the devil, his majesty always asserts his ability to grab the whole thing.—Shacklett.

If a man in the midst of the contumely and detraction of the world can get one woman to believe in him, it is enough.—"Love's Itinerary."

Mrs. Wiggs was a philosopher, and the sum and substance of her philosophy lay in keeping the dust off her rose colored glasses.—"Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch."

There is nothing in the world as harmless and as utterly joyous as man's conceit. The woman who will not pander to it is ungracious indeed.—"The Spinster Book."

The past gives us regrets, the present sorrow, the future fear; at eighteen one adores at once; at twenty one loves; at thirty one desires; at forty one reflects.—"Her Grace's Secret."

A man I knew once—'e's dead now, poor chap, and three widows mourning for 'im—said that with all 'is experience wimmin was as much a riddle to 'im as when he fust married.—"Light Freights."

Searching For Knowledge.

"I say, pa," began little Clarence Callipers, with the rising inflection of one who earnestly desires to acquire important information, "what?"

"Oh, I don't know!" replied his long suffering sire wearily.

"Yes. But the question I wanted to ask isn't foolish, pa."

"H'm! If it isn't foolish, you may ask it. But, remember, just one question, and no more."

"Well, pa, there are two of 'em that I want to ask. One is, Which is the smartest, the man who knows enough to know that he don't know much or the man who knows enough to look as if he knew everything? The other is, If the end of the world was to come and the earth be destroyed while a man was up in a balloon, where would he land when he came down? And, pa, I don't know which one of 'em to ask."

Shakespeare's Anachronisms.

The very head and front of all offenders in the perpetration of anachronisms was Shakespeare himself. He speaks of cannon in the reign of John, whereas cannon were unknown until a century and a half later; of printing in the time of Henry II.; of clocks, and striking clocks at that, in the time of Julius Caesar; he makes Hector quote Aristotle and Coriolanus refer to cats and Alexander; he introduces a billiard table into Cleopatra's palace; he dowers Bohemia with a sea coast and makes Delphos an island.

Quietly Severed.

"There has been very little discussion of your separation from your husband," said the New York woman.

Wireless Message From the Steamer Bearing Henry, When 90 Miles Away.

GERMAN AND AMERICAN AIRS

Played In General Saloon, During Dinner—Prince Says Last Man to Shake His Hand on German Soil Was an American.

London, Feb. 17.—A message transmitted by the Marconi wireless system from the Kronprinz Wilhelm, when that steamer was 90 miles off the Lizard, reported: "All well; weather fine; sea smooth."

Southampton, Feb. 17.—The Kronprinz Wilhelm arrived here yesterday morning. Prince Henry's voyage to England was uneventful. The Kronprinz Wilhelm proceeded slowly from Bremerhaven down the Weser under a cloudless sky and amidst cheers from the people lining the shore. The prince and his suite walked upon the upper deck with some of the other passengers. Later Prince Henry proceeded to the bridge, where he held a long conversation with the captain of the steamer and showed the greatest interest in all the details of the ship.

Played German and American Airs.

The prince, with his suite, appeared at dinner, occupying a table in an alcove of the general saloon. During the meal the band played German and American airs. The prince's table naturally attracted the undivided attention of the other passengers, but Prince Henry did not seem to mind this. After dinner the prince spent an hour in the smoking room.

He was up early in the morning, walking the deck. In the course of a conversation he again expressed the pleasure he feels at visiting the United States, and added:

"Why, the last man I shook hands with on German ground was an American, the Berlin representative of the Associated Press."

At about half-past 10 a. m. the Isle of Wight and the forts of Portsmouth were sighted. It was a day of glorious sunshine. With the band playing and with flags flying, the steamer made her way up Southampton waters to the dock. Here the North German Lloyd steamship company, contrary to the desire of Prince Henry, had taken the most elaborate precautions. The special train from London, carrying passengers for the Kronprinz Wilhelm, arrived at Southampton at 11:30, but was not allowed to proceed to the dock until the steamer bearing Prince Henry had been made fast. At 1 o'clock the dock swarmed with policemen and detectives, and the steamship tickets of the Southampton passengers were repeatedly scrutinized.

Prince Visited the Bridge.

Prince Henry remained on the bridge of the steamer until the members of the German embassy at London, who came down here to welcome him, went on board. He then received them in his salon.

The Kronprinz Wilhelm sailed for Cherbourg at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Among her passengers are George and Allison Armour, Sir Charles Cust, Spencer Eddy, first secretary of the American legation at Constantinople, and Miss Catherine Eddy, his sister, and Mrs. Moreton Ewen, sister of Mrs. Cornwallis West.

Cherbourg, Feb. 17.—The Kronprinz Wilhelm arrived in the roadstead at 8:40 last evening, after a pleasant passage from Southampton. The weather was splendid and there was no wind. The steamer stayed here but a short time, during which the band played selections from various airs. The Kronprinz Wilhelm resumed her journey for New York at 9 o'clock.

New York, Feb. 17.—The regular Sunday services prescribed by the Lutheran church took place on the Hohenzollern at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. They were conducted by Admiral Von Baudissin and were attended by all the members of the crew. At the close the commander of the imperial yacht prepared to carry out the cabled instructions from Emperor William to place a wreath on the tomb of Miss Beatrice Goelet, daughter of the late Robert Goelet, and of Mrs. Harriett Warren Goelet, who died on Feb. 10, of pneumonia. The wreath, which was made in a bed of smilax, was composed of white roses and lilies of the valley, and on the inside of the circle was a row of white tulips. It was quite large and was bound with broad white silk ribbon, the streamers of which were trimmed with gold and bore the monogram of the kaiser and the imperial crest. The wreath was delivered at the Hohenzollern at 11 o'clock and a few minutes later Admiral Von Baudissin, in full uniform, accompanied by his aide, Captain Von Der Osten, also in uniform, left for the Goelet home on Fifth avenue. The wreath was left at the residence and later carried to Woodlawn cemetery and placed on the tomb by two members of the Goelet family without any ceremony.

While the admiral was away from the Hohenzollern, Captain Von Holleben and Lieutenants Rebusburg and Seidensticker were entertained at the German club house in Hoboken.

Admiral Von Baudissin and several members of his staff were the guests last evening of Karl Buanz, German consul general at this port.

Lieutenant Rebusburg said last night that the admiral intends leaving for Philadelphia on the 9 o'clock train via the Pennsylvania railroad this morning. He will visit relatives and expects to remain in Philadelphia until Tuesday afternoon.

TWO RAILROADERS KILLED.

Victims of a Head-On Collision on P., McK. & Y. Division, Near Connelleville, Pa.

Connelleville, Pa., Feb. 17.—An engineer and fireman of the Pittsburg, McKeesport and Younghigheny division of the Pittsburg and Lake Erie railroad were pinned under wreckage at Round Bottom, near here for four hours while 40 wreck crew men worked to save them. When reached both were dead. The wreck was the result of one of the worst head-on collisions known on the division for years.

The Dead.

Engineer T. W. Lyons, of McKees Rocks, crushed and burned. Fireman P. W. Desot, of Buffalo, boarded at McKees Rocks.

A dense fog hung over the river valley all day Saturday and made train running hazardous. Train No. 63, northbound, with loads of coke, was running at a fair speed. There was a sharp curve where the accident happened. The men on the north-bound train saw the danger and jumped, escaping uninjured. The unfortunate engineer and fireman also tried to do this, but were caught in the wreckage before they could leave their engine. The engines were demolished and cars piled up over them. Twenty cars from each of the trains were wrecked. Eighteen hours elapsed before traffic was restored. The remains of the two dead men were shipped to McKees Rocks last evening.

TWO OF BOYS IMPROVED.

One Had Spell of Restlessness—Mrs. Roosevelt at Infirmary Most of Sunday.

Boston, Feb. 17.—The three sick boys in the Groton school infirmary had a very quiet Sunday, and from a medical point of view a satisfactory one, although in the morning there was some uneasiness about Howard Potter. Dr. L. C. Shattuck was recalled by Dr. Warren for consultation in his case, and later it was stated that young Potter had not had a setback, but simply a spell of restlessness. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., and William Gammell, Jr., continued to show much improvement.

Mrs. Roosevelt spent the greater portion of the day at the infirmary with her son and did not leave for the Gardner house until late in the afternoon. Miss Alice Roosevelt went for a ride in the morning with Mr. Grafton D. Cushing, of Boston, who spent Sunday here. She lunched later at the home of Mr. John Lawrence and Sunday afternoon spent considerable time at the infirmary.

Mrs. James Roosevelt, an aunt, arrived here Saturday night.

BOERS TRAPPED THE BRITISH.

Twelve Killed and Over 40 Injured Before Reaching Cover of Block House

Pretoria, Feb. 17.—One hundred and fifty mounted infantrymen, while patrolling the Klip river, south of Johannesburg, Feb. 12, surrounded a farm house where they suspected Boers were in hiding. A single Boer broke away from the house and the British started to pursue him. The Boer climbed a kopje, the British following. Immediately a heavy fire opened upon them from three sides. The British found themselves in a

Souls May Die

It appears to be imagined that if one can get past physical death without his soul ceasing to exist the everlasting duration of his soul's existence is thereby insured. That is taking a good deal for granted.

The very expression "a live soul" is rather immediately suggestive of a dead soul, and there is a great deal in the Bible even about dead souls, souls that have been alive, but have died. "The soul that sinneth it shall die." "Sin when it is finished bringeth forth death"—not the death of the body, but the soul's death. "The wages of sin is death." I assume that those expressions mean what they say. A live thing will live just so long as the conditions are kept up that its life depends upon.

THERE IS NOTHING IN SCRIPTURE OR IN THINGS THAT ENCOURAGES US TO FEEL THAT A SOUL CAN BE KEPT FROM DYING ANY MORE THAN A BODY UNLESS IT IS TAKEN CARE OF.

There is no warrant from Bible or from nature for supposing that a soul carries within itself a policy of insurance against its own eventual obliteration.

We may be immortal, but if we prove to be such it will be because we have succeeded in being such. It may be that eternity is the normal period of a soul's life. So threescore and ten or four-score years is the normal period of the life of the body, but a great many bodies die before that time. A BODY THAT DOES NOT HAVE EXCELLENT CARE TAKEN OF IT IS ALMOST CERTAIN TO DIE A GOOD WHILE BEFORE. A SOUL THAT DOES NOT HAVE GOOD CARE TAKEN OF IT IS SIMILARLY LIKELY TO DIE A GOOD WHILE BEFORE ETERNITY ENDS.

In this I am not extemporizing anything, but simply reasoning from the analogy of nature and from the intimations of God's word. If it is the intention of nature that a soul should reach that spiritual longevity expressed by the word "eternal," the soul will have to pay for the superb prerogative by fulfilling the conditions and taking good care of its spiritual health. Once you begin to respect the intimations of nature and to regard the suggestions of God's word you discover that while the mere doctrine of immortality may be settled by philosophical or theological argumentation THE QUESTION WHETHER YOU PERSONALLY WILL BE IMMORTAL IS GOING TO BE SETTLED BY YOU.

The only certain security against the soul's death is in its possession of ingredients that are of such sort that death has no relevancy to them. Merely stopping once in awhile in the midst of our hurry and pathetically wondering whether everything does not leave off at the graveyard is a mode of procedure that we should call silly if it were not so common.

WE OUGHT CERTAINLY TO SPEND AS MUCH THOUGHT AND EFFORT IN GETTING READY TO BE IMMORTAL AS WE SPEND IN GETTING OUR BODIES READY TO SURVIVE TO THREESCORE AND TEN.

Our souls will doubtless live as long as there is in them enough of what we may call spirit life to overcome the menacing influences to which, whether this side of the grave or another, the soul is liable.

Much Feeling Aroused by His Speech, Which May Figure In House Debate.

AN ACTIVE WEEK EXPECTED.

War Revenue Reduction Bill to Be Taken Up Today—Danish Treaty May Be Taken Up In Senate Today—Forecast of Congress.

Washington, Feb. 17.—The coming week promises to be one of unusual activity in the house of representatives. Beginning today the war revenue reduction bill will be taken up, with two days for debate, and a stringent special rule bringing the bill to a vote at 3 p. m. Tuesday, without intervening motion to recommend or amendments other than those of a verbal character proposed by the committee. At the outset there promises to be a spirited contest on the adoption of the special rule, as the minority will protest against the cutting off of amendments and the motion to recommend. There is little doubt, however, that the rule will be adopted. When the debate proper begins there will be hardly more than three hours on each side. This time will be given to the members of the ways and means committee, who in turn will apportion it among their colleagues. The passage of the bill is a foregone conclusion, as the minority members as well as the majority favor it, the only difference being as to the amount of reduction and the extent to which tariff changes should go. Aside from the tariff issue, it would be no surprise if the sensational speech of Representative Wheeler, of Kentucky, on Prince Henry's visit and other foreign matters figures in the discussion, as much feeling has been aroused by the speech.

Indian Bill to Be Taken Up.

The Indian appropriation bill will be taken up on Wednesday, with two other appropriation bills, the diplomatic and consular, and the postoffice in reserve. Chairman Sherman, of the Indian affairs committee, expects to occupy two or three days, so that the other appropriation bills probably will go over until the following week. In that case private claims will get some consideration the latter part of the week.

There are several important measures of general legislation now ready for consideration, including the anti-anarchy bill and the Pacific cable bill. The intention, however, is not to consider these general measures so long as any appropriation bills remain unacted on.

Besides the work on the floor of the house it is expected that the coming week may see some progress in the ways and means committee, on the subject of Cuban reciprocity, which was deferred until after the war revenue reduction measure had been passed.

Washington, Feb. 17.—The greater part of the day today will be devoted by the senate to an effort to ratify the treaty with Denmark for the cession of the Danish West Indies. This proceeding will be in executive session, and there is no certainty as to whether one day will be sufficient for the purpose or not. Thus far there has been no marked evidence of opposition to the treaty, but Senator Bacon has indicated a purpose of offering an amendment to the agreement and of discussing it to some extent. What further discussion may develop remains to be seen.

Action May Be Postponed.

If the consideration of the treaty is not concluded Monday its final disposition will probably be postponed.

WATCH DOGS

Ever on the Alert, Alive to Every Form of Oppression, Kept on Edge, Burdened Beyond Endurance, Nerves Give Out.

The machinery of a mill that grinds day and night has to shut down now and then for repairs. It is the same way with your nerves. Overwork, close application, our ways of living, bring about nerve waste that sets up symptoms of various kinds. It may be failing strength, weakness, languor, headache, sleeplessness, etc. Whatever it is nerve force is lacking, and the means of restoring rests with Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills. A great many people in East Liverpool vouch for this. Among them is Mr. James Peppin, of No. 302 Third street, East Liverpool, O., who says: "Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills I got at Larkins' drug store, corner Sixth and East Market streets, are a fine nerve tonic. As a result of hard work I was generally debilitated, nervous and could not sleep. I needed rebuilding and found in the nerve pills the medicine needed. They have the power to steady and strengthen the nerves, give restful sleep and general vigor to the system at large."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are sold at 50 cents a box at dealers, or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine company, Buffalo, N. Y. See that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., are on every package.

The National Period of American Literature

BY LORENZO SEARS, LIT. D.,
Professor of American Literature in
Brown University.

I.—Political Writers of the Critical Period.

THERE was no immediate change in literary habits when the independence of the colonies was established in 1783. A people could not adjust themselves to a new condition of liberty in a day or a year after their life of a century and three-quarters as subject provinces. Neither could they get out of the ruts of thought and expression in which they had been brought up. Moreover, in the five years succeeding the end of the war there were causes which continued to literature the complexion it had during the war. If it was controversial then, when the majority were for freedom from British rule, what could be expected when opinion was much divided about the form of government that should be adopted? Indeed, opposition and disputation had become chronic. The Declaration of Independence was passed with difficulty, the war was prolonged by dissent, and now the plan of union was to be five years in getting itself adjusted to provincial notions.

This process made a continuation of political literature inevitable. Men who eight years before dropped their pens and picked up swords now hung these over the fireplace and returned to their desks. Many who had in these years kept up a wordy war protracted it until the constitution was adopted, believing that the fruits of all the sacrifice made would be lost with the rejection of their own theories of government. Hence followed a new installment of political literature whose importance in tiding the new nation over dangerous shoals cannot be overestimated.

The men who contributed to it were principally those who had guided the war to its successful issue. There was enough opposition among them to give zest and point to the writings of all in discussing the question of changing the confederacy to a union of states. The leaders in this great debate were Samuel Adams, Patrick Henry and Thomas Jefferson on the side of the established government.

On the other side were ranged Alexander Hamilton, John Jay and James Madison as leaders of the party for the adoption of the constitution. With them were associated George Washington, John Adams, Fisher Ames, Thomas Paine, Albert Gallatin, John Marshall and Joseph Story. The first three of these made The Federalist famous as the leading collection of political writings in this long and violent controversy. The constitution had been called a "triple headed monster" and "as deep and wicked a conspiracy as ever was invented in the darkest ages against the liberties of a free people." Evidently some one must arise to its defense and explanation. Hamilton undertook this with the help of Madison and Jay in 85 short essays, published in The Independent Gazetteer of New York in 1787-8, of which Hamilton himself wrote 51. They did for the adoption of the constitution what Paine's essays did for the Declaration of Independence. The writers did not have the creation of literature in mind so much as of a new government. Incidentally they accomplished the first while laboring with all their might for the second, producing not only "the most profound and suggestive treatise on government that has ever been written," but also a piece of writing which reflects the spirit of liberty guided and controlled by the wisest law. In addition, it has literary values which cannot be overlooked. The clearness and directness of the opening sentences declare in unmistakable terms the purpose of the writer and the importance of the question to be discussed.

"After an unequivocal experience of the inefficacy of the subsisting federal government, you are called upon to deliberate on a new constitution for the United States of America. The subject speaks its own importance, comprehending in its consequences nothing less than the existence of the union, the safety and welfare of the parts of which it is composed, the fate of an empire in many respects the most interesting in the world. It has been frequently remarked that it seems to have been reserved to the people of this country by their conduct and example to decide the important question whether societies of men are really capable or not of establishing good government from reflection and choice or whether they are forever destined to depend for their political constitutions on accident and force. The crisis at which we are arrived may with propriety be regarded as the era in which that decision is to be made." The man who could write this and what follows in the cabin of a river sloop had his subject well in hand, to say the least. He also had knowledge of the times sufficient to recognize that the period was a critical one in the life of the nation, and that imperialism threatened its existence on one side and anarchy on the other. His own aim was to call men away from the separatism and individualism which had been bred in and from colonial beginnings in colonial seclusion and exclusiveness now cropping out in the rights which each new state desired to keep, surrendering little or nothing to the union of all, which alone had brought them through recent perils. He frankly admits that he is on the side of this union, a view of affairs not so familiar then as it is now and regarded by many with doubt and suspicion. They considered 13 states along the coast as too many to be held together, or, if possible, that centralization of government would end in imperialism. Accordingly Hamilton proposes to meet their objections and to show the utility of union, the insufficiency of the present confederation, the necessity of a stronger government, the conformity of the constitution to republican principles, the additional security it will afford to liberty and to property and the inevitable dismemberment that would follow a rejection of the proposed constitution.

It is impracticable of course to follow the discussion of these vital topics here even in outline. It must be read to appreciate the wisdom of its views and the dignity and moderation with which they are presented. Much may be argued for the good sense of a people to whom such a series of articles could be addressed with the expectation that they would be carefully read and thoughtfully pondered. That they were so received is evident from their continuation through 85 numbers and their repeated issue in edition after edition when they were completed. That they were successful in their purpose is established by the fact that the particular community to which they were addressed was induced to do that which the majority had informally declared it would not do, and the people of New York, accepting this interpretation of the constitution as true, determined to favor its establishment between itself and the other states of the union. The Federalist had a similar efficacy wherever it was read. The men who wrote it were Americans rather than provincials. They were statesmen and foremost thinkers in a time which called for profound and earnest reflection on questions of immense consequence. Other papers were written by their peers in other journals, but this collection is pre-eminent among them all.

Accordingly it has seemed imperative to call particular attention to a production which is sometimes spoken of as a series of newspaper articles or as a partisan view of a question that has long since been settled. That these articles were not ephemeral is shown by their repeated reproduction to the present day in 20 editions. That they are something more than a Whig document is evidenced by the fact that they are the best interpreters of the intentions and purposes which the builders of the nation had when they framed the constitution of the United States. This instrument itself cannot be well understood without the contemporary commentary of The Federalist.

Reference has already been made to the writings of the group of statesmen who were both the product of this critical period and the agents in bringing it about. They were as a rule voluminous writers. When the few books which were at their command are considered, as compared with present accumulations, their creative resources are remarkable. They pondered diligently and wrote continuously. As a consequence their works fill volumes. These have not been perused or often consulted by the average reader in the latter part of the century as they were in the former, but with the revival of interest in American history and literature and the growing habit of investigating original documents and writings the worth of them will be rediscovered. Especially to those who incline to a study of the least political science and the nature of republican forms of government will these writings of the founders of our own be a literature in which they may take both delight and pride. It was this which first won attention to us in other countries—in England because the loss of colonies was impending, on the continent of Europe because of a widespread sympathy with the cause which was so clearly stated and ably defended. The new nation had not yet attained to the graces of literature, but the strength and vigor which ought to precede these were abundant. The foundations of empire and of letters were laid simultaneously by Franklin and Adams and Otis, by Jefferson and Henry and Hamilton, by John Adams and Quincy Adams, by Paine and Marshall and the rest of the constellation of publicists which ruled in the ascendancy at the birth of the nation.

LIBRARIAN HERE

MISS BAKER HAS ENTERED UPON HER WORK.

Improved System of Classification Adopted—Plans for Opening.

According to previous arrangement of the Carnegie library board, Miss Gertrude Baker, of Mt. Vernon, is in the city and has already taken charge of the work.

Miss Baker is thoroughly conversant with every detail of the work before her, and she has assumed her duties with a zest than cannot but bring success.

The lady informed a reporter that she had determined upon the adoption of the Dewey decimal system of classification, which is in vogue in all of the principal libraries, and which has been found most satisfactory by experienced and competent librarians everywhere.

The system places the works in ten classes, viz: General works, philosophy, religion, sociology, philology, natural science, useful arts, fine arts, literature, history.

The last two are the larger. Literature includes all works of fiction, and will occupy a large space, while history takes in travel and biography and will also be extensive.

The librarian's quarters have been fitted up in the building, and she can be found there today. It is Miss Baker's wish that all persons who have contributions to make will call as early as possible. All volumes of general interest, together with complete numbers of magazines are solicited, and will be thankfully received.

It is thankful that the institution will be opened to the public some time during the month of April. However, it is the intention to have every department completely fitted and ready for occupancy before the opening. A meeting of the board will be held tonight.

The Presbyterian church will hold an oyster supper at town hall, Calcutta, Wednesday evening. 40-b

PROTECTION OF WORDS.

A Plea For a Rest For Our Familiar Quotations.

In these days when everybody is writing and everybody seems to succeed would it not be well to start a society for the protection of words and phrases? Many of these are so brutally overworked by the amateur. The winged words, the words that burn, the thoughts that breathe, the telling phrases, do they not clamor loudly for a rest? That very sentence affords an illuminating example of what I mean. How apt, how vivid, how expressive it would be if all its epithets had not lost their vitality through overwork! To the sated reader the whole sentence is but the echo of an echo. It not merely means nothing, but it is robbed even of its sound and fury.

The greenhorn that complained of "Hamlet" that it was too full of quotations unconsciously expressed a great fact through the medium of a bull. In a wrongheaded way he pointed out that constant reiteration has reduced the grandest passages in the language to mere commonplace. Give our familiar quotations a rest. Lay to sleep our household words. Let fortune for awhile cease to favor the brave. Let us feign that the poet is made. Let a man who would steal another's thunder be arrested for felony. Let us win no more golden opinions. Let the favored few withdraw to some select seclusion and the countless thousands to some dry eyed privacy.

Thus may nouns, adjectives and phrases, after a long rest, reawaken with the freshness of the morning upon them, their original meanings recreated, energetic, effective, brilliant, as on the day when they were first conceived and brought forth.—Era.

An extract from the report of the state executive committee of Ohio is as follows:

Howard Snively, a fireman at the Wellsville round house, went to a barrel of crude oil Saturday night with a lighted lamp.

M. E. Church Services.

The Knights of Pythias attended the M. E. church in a body yesterday morning. Dr. Crawford preached a very fine sermon on "The Love of God." The church was crowded to overflowing last night and many persons went forward for prayers. The interest seems to be increasing.

Thought She Was a Calf.

When Mme. Schumann-Heink was thirteen, her father was transferred to Gratz, where a singing teacher, Marietta von Leclair, recognizing the young girl's talent, offered to give her singing lessons without compensation. For two years she studied nothing but solfeggios. Then she began learning songs. She had a very deep contralto without any high notes at that time. One day a caller, hearing her sing Schubert's "Der Tod und das Mädchen" in an adjoining room, said to her teacher, "I did not know that you taught young calves."

"She is not a young calf," replied Marietta von Leclair. "Some day she will be a great singer."—Gustav Kobbe in Woman's Home Companion.

A Curious Boat.

According to a Chinese legend, there lived in Canton 200 years before Christ an artist named Lim Kao Pong, who won an immortal reputation owing to the fact that he was able to fashion out of a bean pod a boat, complete with rudder, sails, mast and all other necessary appurtenances. Moreover, on the exterior of the boat were engraved various maxims by Confucius. For this masterpiece, it is said, the Emperor Tsi Fou paid him 1,000 taels.
